Wilson Blamed for 'Havoc' In Crucial Steel Dispute

WSB Leader Says Truman Right in Seizing Mills of Industry

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) accused former economic mobilizer Charles E. Wilson today of creating "havoc" in the crucial steel dispute.

Feinsinger told senators that Wilson stirred up grave trouble by calling the WSB's settlement recommendations a serious threat to the anti-inflation and stabilization program.

When Wilson modified his statement to the extent of saying the WSB findings should be the basis of negotiations toward peace in the industry, Feinsinger said, the "retraction was too little and too late to avoid the havoc caused by the first statement."

Feinsinger was called before the Senate Labor Committee in the latest development of a situation which has seen: The CIO Steelworkers threaten to strike if the industry refused to accept the WSB's recommendation, Wilson's resignation as economic stabilizer, and government seizure of the mills to keep production going.

Wilson resigned with a statement that President Truman had changed his mind about granting the steel industry a price increase to compensate for the board's wage recommendations.

Bad Atmosphere

"This atmosphere was scarcely conducive to the beginning of negotiations looking towards settlement," Feinsinger told the committee.

The wage board chief said "quite properly I was not consulted on the question of seizure" but defended that action by the President a week ago as "sound and right."

The President has been widely criticized for what his antagonists have called a "usurpation" of power in taking over the steel properties.

One of the warmest controversies has grown out of the WSB's recommendation for a union shop in the industry, under which all workers must belong to the union.

On this point, Feinsinger said compulsory unionism already exists in the steel producing and fabricating industries. He said several of the largest steel companies "which are parties to this case" have union shops with their railroad, steampship and coal producing subsidiaries.

Meanwhile, industrial and business leaders from all over the country went into a closed meeting here to review the situation.

The meeting of 170 business men was sponsored by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

Will Offer Compromise

Sen. Morse (R-Ore.), already the author of a bill to provide a definite pattern for government seizures, said he will offer a compromise basis. He said it would:

1. Provide for return of the steel mills to the companies on condition that they accept the wage and fringe benefits recommended by the WSB unless those were modified in free collective bargaining.

2. Provide that during the period of the emergency, the union shop shall not be imposed by any government intervention.

3. Allow the companies price increases they are entitled to under formulas worked out by government stabilization authorities.

4. Waive government rights so that the companies could sue for any damages to their plants that they claim during the time of government operation.

Feinsinger told the senators the board's recommendations were clearly within its authority.

He said that would be clear to

Nation's Communication Wires Unravelling Today

Three Walkouts Ended; Three Others Still in Unsettled Stage

New York, April 15 (AP)—The nation's strike-tangled communications wires were unravelling today with the settlement of a New Jersey telephone dispute bringing to three the number of walkouts ended.

But three other wire strikes still were unsettled, and one of these—against the Western Electric Co.—could nullify the effects of the three settlements by keeping phone workers from their jobs.

A contract agreement providing a $4-a-week pay increase and fringe benefits was reached early today at Newark, N. J., between the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company and 10,000 striking operators, members of the CIO Communications Workers of America.

Ohio Bell Telephone workers ended their strike yesterday after obtaining pay boosts of $4-to-$7-a-week, similar to increases granted Michigan telephone workers last week.

Federal mediators are working in New York to settle the strike of 16,000 CIO-CWA members against Western Electric, the Bell System's manufacturing subsidiary.

Western Electric Out

The Western Electric strikers, by using picket lines, have threatened to keep phone service disrupted in Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan and 40 other states. The union claims that hundreds of phone workers would stay away from their jobs if all exchanges were picketed.

Western Electric pickets prevented a complete return to work of the New Jersey operators. A Bell Company spokesman said union employes refused to cross picket lines at 19 of the firm's 122 exchanges.

In Boston, Western Electric pickets were withdrawn from New England Telephone & Telegraph Company operation centers and long lines operators who had refused to cross picket lines went back to work.

A fifth telephone wage battle involves the Bell system's affiliate in the northern California-Nevada area, where the union claims 7,000 are striking.

The CIO-CWA represents the workers in the Western Electric and four telephone company disputes, but each of the five American Telephone & Telegraph Company subsidiaries has a separate contract. The union said there was a total of 67,000 strikers when the walkout started simultaneously a week ago yesterday.

In the other deadlocked communications strike, some 30,000 AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union members are asking wage increases from the Western Union Company. This dispute went into its 13th day today with no settlement in sight.

New York, April 15 (AP)—Cold rains spoiled the opening of the major league season today, forcing postponement of the New York Yankees and the New York Giants.

State Tax Deadline Occurs at Midnight

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP) If you are one of an estimated two million New Yorkers who have not filed your state income tax return, time is running out on you.

Midnight tonight is the deadline for filing 1951 returns—and at least a quarter of the total amount due.

The State Department of Taxation and finance said yesterday only about 1,500,000 returns had been received. The department said it expected about four million returns to be filed this year.

Scrap Metal Drive Slated Saturday

City Trucks Will Pick Up Material; Cleanup Help Available

A city-wide drive to collect scrap metal needed in the country's defense effort has been planned for Saturday, April 19.

Sharing in the proceeds of the sale of the scrap will be the Kingston Boys' Club and the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Emil G. Boessneck, Ulster county scrap mobilization chairman, have been named honorary chairmen. The general chairman is Cy DuBois, a member of the Boys' club board of directors.

The supervisors of the city's 13 wards also serve on the committee.

Volunteers Ready

Members of Local 316, State, County and Municipal Employes Union (AFL), have donated their services to help pick up the scrap on Saturday. City trucks have been made available through the cooperation of Mayor Newkirk and Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of the Board of Public Works. Members of the Boys' Club and other volunteers will assist in the drive.

The collection will be of the house-to-house type. Householders who have any type of metal scrap to be collected are asked by the committee to place it at the curb in front of their homes by Friday night.

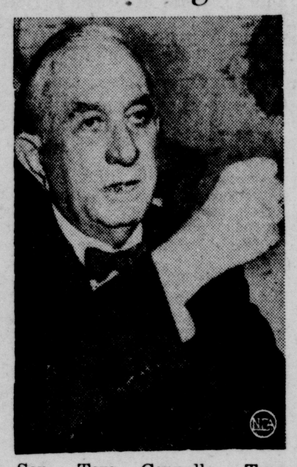

May Call for Help

Persons needing assistance in getting the scrap to the curb, or who have other special handling problems, may obtain help by telephoning Kingston 5360.

Committee members stress the fact that donations of scrap to this drive are direct contributions to the country's defense. Iron and steel scrap, especially, are needed to keep production at a high level.

It was also pointed out by the committee that the more scrap turned in on a nation-wide basis, the more civilian consumer goods will be able to be produced over and above defense production.

Retiring

Sen. Tom Connally, Texas Democrat, announced in Washington that he has decided to retire rather than face a stiff re-election battle. The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he has served in the Congress for 35 years. (NEA Telephoto).

Back Buys School For $14,000 Today; Approval Needed

Cigar Firm Representative Highest Bidder on No. 1 Building in Wilbur

School No. 1 on Wilbur avenue was sold for $14,000 at public auction this morning to Charles B. Back of J. B. Back and Co., Inc., cigar manufacturers.

The sale is subject to approval of the Kingston Board of Education, which under terms of the sale reserved the right to reject any or all bids.

Although 30 adults were present when Arthur J. Laidlaw, clerk of the education board, placed the school building on sale, only three separate parties submitted bids, one of them dropping out after placing a starter bid of $4,500.

The opening bid was jumped to $12,000, and then the sale proceeded slowly, with bids of $13,000, $13,500 and finally $14,000 received from Back and another party.

Up to School Board

Before the sale becomes final, the board of education must meet and consider the proposal. It may, if its members so decide, reject all bids.

Clarence S. Rowland, board president, said this morning that no special meeting had been scheduled at which to consider the sale. Decision is expected shortly whether a special meeting will be called, or whether action will await the next regular board meeting, which will be May 1.

The building and property was ordered placed on sale at public auction by resolution adopted by the education board on March 6. The school was closed and its pupils have been transferred to the new George Washington elementary school.

What Property Includes

School No. 1, a solid brick building with metal roof, is approximately 64 by 34 feet in dimensions, Laidlaw told prospective bidders this morning. It contains 4,500 square feet of floor space on two floors, exclusive of the basement. It is on a lot 250 feet square facing on Wilbur avenue. Total area of the lot is 62,500 square feet. The property was conveyed to the Kingston Board of Education by deed dated August 31, 1910.

Missouri Still on Rampage; Local Streams Pose Threat

Mid-West Damage Heaviest; Forecast Favorable to Ulster Area

Swelling streams in Ulster county and other eastern areas gave no signs today of spilling over their banks as they did earlier this month, but in the mid-west the marauding Missouri river continued mauling its way down a soggy valley of misery.

Even in the east, however, and here along the Esopus and other streams, anxiety began to stir like the rising waters as the rain continued.

The rainfall at Browns Station from April 1 until 8 a. m. today was 6.32 inches and the city engineer's records in Kingston indicate about the same for the first half of the month.

Forecast, Fair and Cooler

Promise of fair and cooler weather tonight in eastern New York may end all flood threats from the past three days of rain, but meanwhile, area streams have been taxed with seasonal rainfalls that were far above average.

The city engineer's records to date show more than 15 inches of rain since Jan. 1 while the average for the first three and a half months is 10.3 inches. The average for the entire month of April is 3.11 inches, and already half of the month has resulted in more than double of that precipitation.

But many more records are being broken in the mid-west where an Associated Press report from Omaha said the maddened Missouri, having reduced to ghost towns, several communities along its rich valley while chasing thouands of families from their homes, swept on toward man's greatest challenge to the biggest Missouri river flood ever recorded.

Other Streams Overflow

The Missouri was not alone in spreading hardship, however, as the Mississippi also had swept to record crests in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and smaller streams became menacing in other states.

The Red Cross estimated that an eight-state area where the waters are raging, a total of 18,939 families and some 76,000 persons have had to flee their homes.

This figure covers the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas and Missouri.

Most of this flight of people and their possessions was in the valley of the muddy Missouri. The Red Cross estimated the families forced to flee in this valley at 17,809.

At Washington, the Red Cross said a big Missouri smash through at Omaha-Council Bluffs—raising the total of homeless families to

Teen-Ager Is Held In Ramapo Death

Four Tell Police About Shot Fired Into Patrick Dooley

Viola, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—A teen-age New York city boy was arrested today as the rifleman who shot and killed another youth last night at a campsite in the Ramapo Mountains.

Chief Abe Stern, of the Ramapo police, said the 15-year-old suspect was one of four boys picked up as they started to board a bus at Suffern, N. Y., to return to New York city.

Dusty and disheveled from camping in the woods, the boys were brought in to Viola for questioning, and admitted that one of them had fired the fatal shot into Patrick Dooley, 18.

Names of the four were withheld because of their ages.

Dooley was shot at the camp he and seven friends had pitched on Half Moon Mountain in the Ramapos, just outside Bear Mountain Park.

The four arrested today told a story sharply at variance with information suppled by Dooley's friends.

Police said the four, two of them aged 14 and two of them 15, told police they were walking along a trail, when "some big boys at a camp jumped on us."

One Version of Incident

Most of the Dooley group were a few years older than the four.

Police quoted the four as saying that "the big fellow that got shot" came at one of them with a knife, and that in the scuffle, the .22 rifle carried by one of them went

O'Connell Falls Into Creek After Attack on Barge

Walter Walczak Rescues Murphy Street Painter From Water at Island Dock

William O'Connell, of 29 Murphy street, a painter employed by Island Dock, Inc., fell into the Rondout creek yesterday after he had apparenty been seized with a sudden illness while at work on a barge.

Walter Walczak, a fellow workman, used a pike pole to pull the stricken man from about seven feet of water, William Hutton, an employe of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., applied artificial respiration and O'Connell was taken to Kingston Hospital where his condition was reported as serious, but showing improvement today.

An employe of Island Dock said O'Connell was on the deck of the barge that was getting finishing touches before launching, when he was apparently seized with an attack, clutched his chest and fell into the water at about 3:30 p. m.

Swart Bid Is Low On West Hurley Firehouse, Center

A bid of $39,910 submitted by Henry Swart of Kingston was the lower of two proposals opened Monday night for the general construction work on the proposed new firehouse and community center at West Hurley.

The bids were opened and read at 8 p. m., at the West Hurley school, but the board of fire commissioners reserved decision on the awarding of the contract.

Low bids on other aspects of the work were a bid of $2,100 for electrical contracting submitted by Joseph O'Connor of Rosendale; $4,229 for plumbing by Wieber and Walter of Kingston, and $4,965 for heating by Kingston Oil Supply. A total of three bids were received for the heating contract, two for the electrical contract and three for the plumbing.

$59,000 Approved

Expenditure of $59,000 for construction of the building was approved by voters of West Hurley Fire District No. 1 on Feb. 25, this year, by a vote of 184 to 138. On the same date, the voters approved the expenditure of $21,000

Two Others On Bomber Are Burned

World's Largest Bomber and America's Best Atom Bomb Carrier on Routine Trip

Falls on Farm

Crash Occurs on Takeoff at Air Force Field Early Today

Spokane, Wash., April 15 (AP)—A B-36 bomber crashed on takeoff from Fairchild Air Force Base early today, killing 15 of the 17 aboard.

Two other crewmen suffered serious burns.

Awakened by Crash

The plane fell on the farm of Ernest Alf who told a reporter:

"We were awakened by this awful crash and as we got out of bed all we could see was a big fire. It made an awful explosion. It looked like it was only a block away from the house but it was a half mile.

"I could tell from the shape it was a B-36 but it was all burning."

A few minutes after the crash Alf said the bomber "is all flat now."

The B-36, world's largest bomber and America's foremost atom bomb carrier, skidded through a fence that rings Fairchild and bits of it were strewn through Alf's field.

Pieces of the plane were scattered over a wide area.

Routine Training Mission

Fairchild said the plane normally carries a crew of 15 but had two extra men on board this morning. The flight was described as a routine training mission.

The B-36 has a range of 10,000 miles with its four jet and six piston engines.

This was the second 3½ million dollar B-36 destroyed at Fairchild. One crashed and burned while landing at the base, eight miles west of Spokane, last winter. All the crewmen escaped before it caught fire.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The position of the treasury April 11. Net budget receipts $119,562,671.47; budget expenditures $153,832,042.35; cash balance $5,865,576,371.65; customs receipts for month $18,811,350.62; budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $46,345,298,429.95; budget expenditures fiscal year $49,945,187,197.17; budget deficit $3,599,888,767.22; total debt $257,486,216,131.93; increase over previous day $349,051.44; gold assets $23,292,728,329.19.

Postpone Action On Keeping Stores Open Two Nights

A discussion on keeping stores open two nights a week was one of the major matters presented at the dinner meeting of the Kingston Business Men's Association Monday noon at The Kirkland Hotel.

After the proposition had been presented and given some consideration it was decided to postpone any action on the matter at the time and the two night a week opening proposal will come up again at the next meeting to be held at The Kirkland on Monday, April 28, at noon.

Also presented for consideration and thought was the matter of more parking space for shoppers. Parking in the business areas has become acute and with the influx of summer visitors in the summer months the situation will become more critical, especially on days when stores are open evenings. This matter will be brought up for more discussion at the next meeting.

Noon meetings twice a month, a new proposal where merchants are given an opportunity to talk over matters of importance to business in general, have proven quite successful and at Monday's meeting there was a good attendance. A large and more representative meeting is desired by President Clyde Wonderly, Jr., so that matters which affect the retail business of the city may be discussed and any action which is taken may be representative of the desire of the majority.

Mrs. Shirey, upon receipt of the photograph of her husband, said that "he appears to have gained some weight since his capture by the Communists."

Primary Election Here Next Tuesday

The spring primary election will be held on Tuesday, April 22, from 12 o'clock noon to 9 p. m. At that time the major parties will elect district delegates to the national convention and alternate district delegates as well as members of the State Committee.

In this critical year when election of a president comes before the people of the country every eligible voter should turn out at the primary election and express his or her choice for delegates to the national convention as well as for members of the state committee.

Wilson Blamed for 'Havoc' In Crucial Steel Dispute

Four Tell Police About Shot Fired Into Patrick Dooley

Viola, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—A teen-age New York city boy was arrested today as the rifleman who shot and killed another youth last night at a campsite in the Ramapo Mountains.

Chief Abe Stern, of the Ramapo police, said the 15-year-old suspect was one of four boys picked up as they started to board a bus at Suffern, N. Y., to return to New York city.

Dusty and disheveled from camping in the woods, the boys were brought in to Viola for questioning, and admitted that one of them had fired the fatal shot into Patrick Dooley, 18.

Names of the four were withheld because of their ages.

Dooley was shot at the camp he and seven friends had pitched on Half Moon Mountain in the Ramapos, just outside Bear Mountain Park.

The four arrested today told a story sharply at variance with information suppled by Dooley's friends.

Police said the four, two of them aged 14 and two of them 15, told police they were walking along a trail, when "some big boys at a camp jumped on us."

One Version of Incident

Most of the Dooley group were a few years older than the four.

Police quoted the four as saying that "the big fellow that got shot" came at one of them with a knife, and that in the scuffle, the .22 rifle carried by one of them went

William O'Connell, of 29 Murphy street, a painter employed by Island Dock, Inc., fell into the Rondout creek yesterday after he had apparently been seized with a sudden illness while at work on a barge.

Walter Walczak, a fellow workman, used a pike pole to pull the stricken man from about seven feet of water, William Hutton, an employe of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., applied artificial respiration and O'Connell was taken to Kingston Hospital where his condition was reported as serious, but showing improvement today.

An employe of Island Dock said O'Connell was on the deck of the barge that was getting finishing touches before launching, when he was apparently seized with an attack, clutched his chest and fell into the water at about 3:30 p. m.

Pike Pole Rescue

Apparently dazed or unconscious, he was unable to struggle and went to the bottom and when Walczak grappled with the pike

Two Others On Bomber Are Burned

World's Largest Bomber and America's Best Atom Bomb Carrier on Routine Trip

Falls on Farm

Crash Occurs on Takeoff at Air Force Field Early Today

Spokane, Wash., April 15 (AP)—A B-36 bomber crashed on takeoff from Fairchild Air Force Base early today, killing 15 of the 17 aboard.

Two other crewmen suffered serious burns.

Awakened by Crash

The plane fell on the farm of Ernest Alf who told a reporter:

"We were awakened by this awful crash and as we got out of bed all we could see was a big fire. It made an awful explosion. It looked like it was only a block away from the house but it was a half mile.

"I could tell from the shape it was a B-36 but it was all burning."

A few minutes after the crash Alf said the bomber "is all flat now."

The B-36, world's largest bomber and America's foremost atom bomb carrier, skidded through a fence that rings Fairchild and bits of it were strewn through Alf's field.

Pieces of the plane were scattered over a wide area.

Routine Training Mission

Fairchild said the plane normally carries a crew of 15 but had two extra men on board this morning. The flight was described as a routine training mission.

The B-36 has a range of 10,000 miles with its four jet and six piston engines.

Postpone Action On Keeping Stores Open Two Nights

A discussion on keeping stores open two nights a week was one of the major matters presented at the dinner meeting of the Kingston Business Men's Association Monday noon at The Kirkland Hotel.

After the proposition had been presented and given some consideration it was decided to postpone any action on the matter at the time and the two night a week opening proposal will come up again at the next meeting to be held at The Kirkland on Monday, April 28, at noon.

Also presented for consideration and thought was the matter of more parking space for shoppers. Parking in the business areas has become acute and with the influx of summer visitors in the summer months the situation will become more critical, especially on days when stores are open evenings. This matter will be brought up for more discussion at the next meeting.

Noon meetings twice a month, a new proposal where merchants are given an opportunity to talk over matters of importance to business in general, have proven quite successful and at Monday's meeting there was a good attendance. A large and more representative meeting is desired by President Clyde Wonderly, Jr., so that matters which affect the retail business of the city may be discussed, and any action which is taken may be representative of the desire of the majority.

Primary Election Here Next Tuesday

The spring primary election will be held on Tuesday, April 22, from 12 o'clock noon to 9 p. m. At that time the major parties will elect district delegates to the national convention and alternate district delegates as well as members of the State Committee.

In this critical year when election of a president comes before the people of the country every eligible voter should turn out at the primary election and express his or her choice for delegates to the national convention as well as for members of the state committee.

Missouri Still . . .

20,000—would place the Missouri flood among the ten biggest in 71 years of Red Cross relief operations.

While misery grew in the valley and millions of tons of rich top soil sloshed downriver, men and machines at Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia., (combined population 366,000) toiled to build up the flood walls and dikes that they hoped would match the river's mightiest wallop.

More Rain in West

There was a somewhat disheartening report from the weatherman. He was predicting showers for eastern Nebraska and western Iowa Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The job the twin cities faced is best described by two men who have been, and are, in the middle of the battle to beat the might of the Missouri at this focal point.

These were their comments:

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers: "The greatest flood the white man has ever seen in the Missouri river."

Brig. Gen. Don C. Shingler, Missouri river division engineers: "We're in a hell of a lot of trouble. The river is coming with a rip and a roar."

There was little to dispute their words.

Large Area Under Water

All along the Missouri Valley where the river had struck to date, man has been a loser. Only in the matter of saving human life has man scored a win over the Missouri. Beyond that, his lands and his homes have been mercilessly mauled. Army engineers estimate a million and a quarter acres are under the waters of the Missouri and its tributaries.

Authorities agree that the damage so far is in untold millions of dollars and mounts hourly as the river spreads its muddy misery over the land and through abandoned homes.

It is at Omaha and Council Bluffs that man has poured in much of his money, and muscle, to whip the Missouri.

In the area a flood wall of 26.6 feet had been built—enough, it was thought, when it was done to meet anything the Missouri might match up with. But now army men, and all the civilian power that can be mastered, are adding to those walls, and piling more dirt on dikes, to meet a predicted crest of 31.6 feet Thursday.

That's 12½ feet over flood stage, seven feet over the previous high of 24.6 feet in 1881, and five feet over the crest the flood walls and dikes were constructed to handle.

The river stood at 26.7 feet early today.

The situation led Gen. Shingler to comment grimly "We've two and a half strikes on us now!"

Yet no one was giving up. And Gen. Pick, who once was Missouri division engineer and is co-author of the Pick-Sloan Missouri Valley Basin development plan designed to stop flooding and generally enrich the area, said he believed there was a chance of winning.

Many Leave Homes

In Council Bluffs an estimated 30,000 people had streamed from the low-lying lands in the north and western areas of the town along which the Missouri is marching into the hills of the eastern section. In Omaha an estimated 5,000 people have been moved from the city's low-land north and east sections.

That makes 17 square miles of the metropolitan area that has been evacuated — 12 miles in Council Bluffs and five in Omaha. The Bluffs exodus from homes is roughly three-quarters of the population of 45,000.

As the river slugged on down its valley, most towns had surrendered. Pierre, S. D., had been punished, Sioux City, Ia., been helpless before a record crest reached yesterday and smaller towns downstream were deserted, leaving the water to work its will. So far, Sioux City, with 84,035 people, is the biggest town "set awash."

While the Council Bulffs business section stands to be hit, the Omaha main area is up on a rise from the river and seemingly safe. So is most of the Omaha residential area.

A new warning to get out in potential flood areas went from Col. Henry J. Hoeffer, Omaha district engineer, to Nebraska City, Peru, Nemana and Auburn in Nebraska; Hamburg and Thurman, Ia., and Rock Port, Mo.

The colonel emphasized there is time for orderly evacuation, but the need to get out is strong.

Industries Threatened

The Mississippi matched the Missouri in reaching record depths. At St. Paul, the Mississippi, an old time offender, poured through low-lying areas, affecting 5,000 people and poising a big threat to millions of dollars worth of waterfront industries.

Downriver, Winona, 25,000 population, would be one-third under water if a dike broke.

Gov. C. Elmer Anderson asked President Truman to declare Minnesota a disaster area.

Wisconsin, too, felt the thrust of the Mississippi with La Crosse and Prairie De Chien threatened as the river drew up a spreahead to throw at Iowa and Illinois downstream points.

Northward, in upper Minnesota and North Dakota, the Red river of the north slashed into the Fargo-Moorhead area to make nearly 2,000 persons homeless. Fifty blocks of the two cities were under water. This is another rich farm area where the water can be doing unseen as yet damage in the millions to the land.

In the area, state guardsmen, as in Iowa and Nebraska, hustled to duty and volunteers labored through the night to up a sandbag dike as the waters menaced the Fargo Veterans Hospital with about 200 patients.

The 160 miles of the twisting Missouri path from the Iowa border to Leavenworth, Kas., residents who have known the horror of past floods hurried to get out of the way of this one.

Corning, Mo., was under water and at Craig, Fortescue and Napier, in Missouri, orderly evacuation was going on, as it was at Elwood, Kas., across the river from St. Joseph where the city itself was safe.

However, the St. Joseph Airport area had been cleared of humans and at Sheridan Air Force Base, Fort Leavenworth, Kas., equipment was being moved to higher ground with planes standing by for flood relief work.

Teen-Ager Is Held

off, hitting Dooley. The four fled into the woods.

The four were to be turned over to Rockland county children's court. They were among more than 30 teen-age campers questioned by police in a roundup today of possible suspects.

Dooley's camping pals gave police this version of the shooting:

A youth less than 20, stocky and pimply faced, walked out of the woods and surprised them at the campfire as they relaxed after their evening meal.

Dooley was shaving wood with a knife for the morning fire to cook breakfast.

"Put that knife down," the stranger demanded, concentrating his attention on Dooley.

"You throw that gun down," Dooley replied.

Said He Made Threat

"I'll show you what I'm going to do with the gun," the stranger said. He then fired one shot into Dooley.

Several of the campers lunged toward the stranger, but he covered them with the rifle and backed away into the woods warning them:

"We will be back in the morning and clean out the rest of you."

Dooley and his friends had come to the Ramapos for a week-long Easter holiday from St. Francis Preparatory School in Brooklyn.

Boundaries of the newly-formed Hurley Fire District No. 1 coincide with those of the first election district of the Town of Hurley. Fire commissioners are Ira N. Saxe, president, Earle M. Sweet, James H. Stoutenburg, James L. Quinn and Clayton W. Vredenburg.

Plans for the proposed building were drawn by Augustus R. Schrowang, architect. Attorney for the fire district is Louis G. Bruhn.

Savings Increase

New York, April 15 (AP)—New Yorkers are putting more money away for a rainy day—in both savings banks and life insurance. This was reported today by the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York and the Savings Bank Life Insurance Council. Savings banks deposits in the state are gaining at near record rates and were up $72,214,000 for March — the biggest increase for that month since 1946. The gain in accounts was 29,345—the highest for any March since 1945.

pole, he caught a trouser leg and pulled O'Connell. out.

Hutton, who applied artificial respiration, was doing electrical work at the shipyard at the time. The Central Hudson emergency crew was called but the man had revived before he was taken to the hospital and the Central Hudson equipment was not needed.

Local police headquarters were also notified of the mishap and Officers Walter Fitzgerald and Thomas McGrane were dispatched to the shipyard. They said a doctor had been called, but the cause of the attack was undetermined at the time.

O'Connell has been employed at the boat yard since last December.

The steel deck cargo barge on which he was working was scheduled to be launched at 3 p. m., today, but the launching was postponed until tomorrow because of the weather.

Wilson Blamed

Feinsinger, under strong fire from many members of Congress for the steel proposals, appeared before the Senate Labor Committee. He said allegations the board "exceeded its authority and ignored its own regulations" were as far from the truth as anything could be.

He was called to give his opinion on an amendment prepared by Sen. Morse (R.-Ore.) to the Taft-Hartley Act making presidential seizure of plants and facilities legal in certain cases. American industry generally, and many legislators, have condemned the President's seizure of the nation's steel industry a week ago as a "usurpation of power."

Seek Emergency Session

United Nations, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Asian-African nations pushed today for an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly in the wake of western refusal to let the Security Council take up a complaint against France's treatment of Tunisia. The council's western majority refused last night to admit for discussion the 11-nation charge that France is oppressing her North African protectorate, in which more than 100 persons have died this year in riots sparked by Nationalist demands for more self-rule.

New York, April 15 (AP)—George A. Barnewall, 64, vice president, treasurer and a director of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball Club, died last night in Presbyterian Hospital. He had been ill several weeks.

Seven Governors Called by Truman On Flood Relief

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Truman today asked seven mid-western governors to meet with him at Omaha tomorrow to discuss measures for dealing with the flood emergency.

The White House announced Truman will leave Washington by plane at 7 a. m. (EST) tomorrow for a flight over the flood area. The plan is to land at the Offult Air Force Base south of Omaha sometime between 1 and 2 p. m. (EST) for the conference with the governors.

Truman invited Governors Stevenson of Illinois, Anderson of South Dakota, Brunsdale of North Dakota, Beardsley of Iqwa, Peterson of Nebraska, Kohler of Wisconsin and Anderson of Minnesota to meet him there.

Also invited for the conference is James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star and chairman of the President's Missouri Basin Survey Commission.

Lt. Gen. Lewis Pick, chief of army engineers, and Raymond M. Foley, Housing and Home Finance Agency administrator, were directed to be on hand for the meeting.

Await Some Replies

The White House said Senators Hennings (D.-Mo.) and Murray (D.-Mont.) and Rep. Trimble (D.-Ark.) had accepted. Word was still awaited from the other members of the commission.

After the conference, the President plans to fly back to Washington.

At the capitol, meantime, Rep. August H. Andresen (R.-Minn.) proposed an appropriation of one billion dollars for rehabilitation of both private and public property damaged by mid-west floods.

Andresen told a reporter he would introduce legislation Monday when the House reconvenes after its Easter recess to amend the Disaster Relief Act and authorize the billion dollars for immediate use.

Should Use Money Home

"We are spending billions abroad and we should use some of that money to take care of a situation created by such a disaster as the floods in this country," he said.

The office of Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) said that the housing and home finance agency will request President Truman this afternoon to declare the Mississippi and Minnesota river watersheds in Minnesota as disaster areas.

This would permit that agency to use the President's emergency funds for aid in the area.

Grants U. S. Request For No Strike Rule

Cleveland, April 15 (AP)—Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed today granted the government's request for a nostrike injunction against three rail unions.

He observed, "the courts must not and should not be used as instruments to impel collective bargaining in good faith."

Said Judge Freed:

"This court is impelled to observe that injunction is not the solution to the dispute over wages and working conditions which has existed for a period of three years."

"That the burden of resolving the differences should be imposed on the courts is not contemplated in the law.

"The courts must not and should not be used as instruments to impel collective bargaining in good faith.

"The duty rests with the government, the railroads and the unions involved.

"It is apparent, however, that the court must in the interests of national safety, exercise its power to prevent irreparable injury."

He granted a preliminary injunction, which replaces a temporary restraining order he granted on March 11 to halt a three-day strike. The preliminary injunction will remain in effect until he conducts a hearing on a permanent injunction.

Middle Views

Scarsdale, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kas.) said last night that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has middle-of-the-road political views. The senator from Eisenhower's home state of Kansas delivered the first official presidential campaign speech in the general's behalf in New York state. Carlson is director of the National Eisenhower-for-President Headquarters. Carlson said, "We do not want to turn our backs on progress, and yet we do not want to embrace wild and socialistic schemes. That is the great middle way, which is the American way and is the Republican heritage. That is Dwight Eisenhower's approach to our problems, and he has made many clear and emphatic statements on the subject."

Honor Da Vinci

Vinci, Italy, April 15 (AP)—Heads of states and representatives of nations came to this hillside village today in tribute to a peasant woman's son who invented steam cannon, designed batwinged airplanes, and painted the faint smile on the lips of the Mona Lisa. Leonardo Da Vinci, born here 500 years ago today, took his name from the village, and gave it a half thousand years of fame. The fifth centennial of the "Man of the Renaissance" united momentarily the deeply-river east and west. Moscow's newspapers and radio hailed him as a "genius of world culture." Italy's President Luigi Einaudi and Premier Alcide de Gasperi came here with Mexico's Jaime Torres-Bodget, director general of UNESCO, and ambassadors of half a dozen countries.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 15 (AP)—Selling in rails, oils, and copper mining issues today depressed the stock market.

Pressure was light but continuous, and most of the other major sections of the market slid along down in sympathy.

A few of the railroads with heavy oil interests were among the widest losers, Northern Pacific, which has extensive holdings in the Williston Basin in Montana and North Dakota, lost between 3 and 4 points at times.

Union Pacific and Southern Pacific and such carriers as Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Railway and Santa Fe also sold off from fractions to between 1 and 3 points.

Non-ferrous metals were off fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Radio-television issues declined fractionally.

Deal in Bolivia

La Paz, Bolivia, April 15 (AP)—Bolivia's new government promised today to forgive the enemies it beat in a bloody revolt—but briskly weeded the old regime's agents out of top government offices. The National Revolutionary Party (MNR), which won the revolt, prepared welcoming demonstrations this afternoon for its leader, Victor Paz Estenssoro returning after six years' exile in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

No More Court Pickets Allowed After July 1

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Beginning July 1, it will be illegal in New York state to picket a courthouse.

Gov. Dewey yesterday signed the Duffy bill, a measure that stemmed from Red demonstrations outside New York city's Foley Square courthouse two years ago during the marathon Communist conspiracy trial before U. S. Judge Harold Medina.

The measure makes it criminal contempt of court to do any of these things on a public street within 200 feet of a courthouse:

"Calling aloud or shouting, or holding or displaying placards or signs containing written or printed matter concerning the conduct of any trial being conducted in such courthouse or the character of the court of jury . . . or demanding any specified action or determination upon the part of such court of jury in connection with said trial."

Japanese Peace Treaty Signed by President Truman

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Truman signed the Japanese peace treaty today and the State Department announced that peace with Japan will be made effective April 28.

The department said it announced the planned effective date of the treaty—which will end World War 2 in the Pacific—"in order to permit an orderly completion of the transition of Japan from the present occupation status to that of full sovereignty."

In a White House ceremony, the President also penned his name to three related Pacific security pacts. One with Japan gives the U. S. the right to keep military forces in and around Japan.

The others are mutual defense agreements with the Philippines and with Australia and New Zealand.

Truman's signature to the ratification resolution, adopted by the Senate last month, is the next-to-last step for the United States before the peace treaty with Japan comes into full force and formally ends the state of war with the once bitter enemy.

The fina step is depositing the instrument of ratification with the State Department.

The final step is depositing the this step would be taken but officials expect it by the end of this month.

Mayor Just Talking

London, Ont., April 15 (AP)—Freedom of the city didn't mean much to orchestra leader Guy Lombardo today—he found a parking ticket on his car. "He didn't look one bit happy about it either," said hotel doorman Ted Harding, who found Lombardo standing with the ticket in his hand beside his car. "The mayor gave me the freedom of the city, but I guess I'm not in with the police," he told Harding. City Clerk R. H. Cooper said that legally the granting of the freedom of the city carried no special rights and privileges. "However, he added, "anyone receiving it would receive the utmost courtesy in London."

Building 'Safes'

Paris, April 15 (AP)—Workmen today were building a five-story strong room within the prefabricated annex of the Palais de Chaillot to hold secret documents of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). The steel and concrete "safe" will be arranged so that documents can be sent up or down within it to whatever floor requests them. NATO headquarters probably will be fully installed here by next Monday. An airlift is carrying office equipment and documents from London, NATO's home during the last year and a half.

Report 'Moochers'

Local police were notified yesterday that unauthorized men were collecting garbage in the city. The regular collectors said "the garbage moochers" not only infringed on collections, but left containers along streets bottoms up and spilled remnants. For this, the regulars were being blamed, and they asked the police to stop the practice.

Missouri Still . . .

20,000—would place the Missouri flood among the ten biggest in 71 years of Red Cross relief operations.

While misery grew in the valley and millions of tons of rich top soil sloshed downriver, men and machines at Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia., (combined population 366,000) toiled to build up the flood walls and dikes that they hoped would match the river's mightiest wallop.

More Rain in West

There was a somewhat disheartening report from the weatherman. He was predicting showers for eastern Nebraska and western Iowa Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The job the twin cities faced is best described by two men who have been, and are, in the middle of the battle to beat the might of the Missouri at this focal point.

These were their comments:

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers: "The greatest flood the white man has ever seen in the Missouri river."

Brig. Gen. Don C. Shingler, Missouri river division engineers: "We're in a hell of a lot of trouble. The river is coming with a rip and a roar."

There was little to dispute their words.

Large Area Under Water

All along the Missouri Valley where the river had struck to date, man has been a loser. Only in the matter of saving human life has man scored a win over the Missouri. Beyond that, his lands and his homes have been mercilessly mauled. Army engineers estimate a million and a quarter acres are under the waters of the Missouri and its tributaries.

Authorities agree that the damage so far is in untold millions of dollars and mounts hourly as the river spreads its muddy misery over the land and through abandoned homes.

It is at Omaha and Council Bluffs that man has poured in much of his money, and muscle, to whip the Missouri.

In the area a flood wall of 26.6 feet had been built—enough, it was thought, when it was done to meet anything the Missouri might match up with. But now army men, and all the civilian power that can be mastered, are adding to those walls, and piling more dirt on dikes, to meet a predicted crest of 31.6 feet Thursday.

That's 12½ feet over flood stage, seven feet over the previous high of 24.6 feet in 1881, and five feet over the crest the flood walls and dikes were constructed to handle.

The river stood at 26.7 feet early today.

The situation led Gen. Shingler to comment grimly "We've two and a half strikes on us now!"

Yet no one was giving up. And Gen. Pick, who once was Missouri division engineer and is co-author of the Pick-Sloan Missouri Valley Basin development plan designed to stop flooding and generally enrich the area, said he believed there was a chance of winning.

Many Leave Homes

In Council Bluffs an estimated 30,000 people had streamed from the low-lying lands in the north and western areas of the town along which the Missouri is marching into the hills of the eastern section. In Omaha an estimated 5,000 people have been moved from the city's low-land north and east sections.

That makes 17 square miles of the metropolitan area that has been evacuated — 12 miles in Council Bluffs and five in Omaha. The Bluffs exodus from homes is roughly three-quarters of the population of 45,000.

As the river slugged on down its valley, most towns had surrendered. Pierre, S. D., had been punished, Sioux City, Ia., been helpless before a record crest reached yesterday and smaller towns downstream were deserted, leaving the water to work its will. So far, Sioux City, with 84,035 people, is the biggest town "set awash."

While the Council Bluffs business section stands to be hit, the Omaha main area is up on a rise from the river and seemingly safe. So is most of the Omaha residential area.

A new warning to get out in potential flood areas went from Col. Henry J. Hoeffer, Omaha district engineer, to Nebraska City, Peru, Nemana and Auburn in Nebraska; Hamburg and Thurman, Ia., and Rock Port, Mo.

The colonel emphasized there is time for orderly evacuation, but the need to get out is strong.

Industries Threatened

The Mississippi matched the Missouri in reaching record depths. At St. Paul, the Mississippi, an old time offender, poured through low-lying areas, affecting 5,000 people and poising a big threat to millions of dollars worth of waterfront industries.

Downriver, Winona, 25,000 population, would be one-third under water if a dike broke.

Gov. C. Elmer Anderson asked President Truman to declare Minnesota a disaster area.

Wisconsin, too, felt the thrust of the Mississippi with La Crosse and Prairie De Chien threatened as the river drew up a spreahead to throw at Iowa and Illinois downstream points.

Northward, in upper Minnesota and North Dakota, the Red river of the north slashed into the Fargo-Moorhead area to make nearly 2,000 persons homeless. Fifty blocks of the two cities were under water. This is another rich farm area where the water can be doing unseen as yet damage in the millions to the land.

In the area, state guardsmen, as in Iowa and Nebraska, hustled to duty and volunteers labored through the night to up a sandbag dike as the waters menaced the Fargo Veterans Hospital with about 200 patients.

The 160 miles of the twisting Missouri path from the Iowa border to Leavenworth, Kas., residents who have known the horror of past floods hurried to get out of the way of this one.

Corning, Mo., was under water and at Craig, Fortescue and Napier, in Missouri, orderly evacuation was going on, as it was at Elwood, Kas., across the river from St. Joseph where the city itself was safe.

However, the St. Joseph Airport area had been cleared of humans and at Sheridan Air Force Base, Fort Leavenworth, Kas., equipment was being moved to higher ground with planes standing by for flood relief work.

Teen-Ager Is Held

off, hitting Dooley. The four fled into the woods.

The four were to be turned over to Rockland county children's court. They were among more than 30 teen-age campers questioned by police in a roundup today of possible suspects.

Dooley's camping pals gave police this version of the shooting:

A youth less than 20, stocky and pimply faced, walked out of the woods and surprised them at the campfire as they relaxed after their evening meal.

Dooley was shaving wood with a knife for the morning fire to cook breakfast.

"Put that knife down," the stranger demanded, concentrating his attention on Dooley.

"You throw that gun down," Dooley replied.

Said He Made Threat

"I'll show you what I'm going to do with the gun," the stranger said. He then fired one shot into Dooley.

Several of the campers lunged toward the stranger, but he covered them with the rifle and backed away into the woods warning them:

"We will be back in the morning and clean out the rest of you."

Dooley and his friends had come to the Ramapos for a week-long Easter holiday from St. Francis Preparatory School in Brooklyn.

Boundaries of the newly-formed Hurley Fire District No. 1 coincide with those of the first election district of the Town of Hurley. Fire commissioners are Ira N. Saxe, president, Earle M. Sweet, James H. Stoutenburg, James L. Quinn and Clayton W. Vredenburg.

Plans for the proposed building were drawn by Augustus R. Schrowang, architect. Attorney for the fire district is Louis G. Bruhn.

Savings Increase

New York, April 15 (AP)—New Yorkers are putting more money away for a rainy day—in both savings banks and life insurance. This was reported today by the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York and the Savings Bank Life Insurance Council. Savings banks deposits in the state are gaining at near record rates and were up $72,214,000 for March — the biggest increase for that month since 1946. The gain in accounts was 29,345—the highest for any March since 1945.

O'Connell Falls

pole, he caught a trouser leg and pulled O'Connell. out.

Hutton, who applied artificial respiration, was doing electrical work at the shipyard at the time. The Central Hudson emergency crew was called but the man had revived before he was taken to the hospital and the Central Hudson equipment was not needed.

Local police headquarters were also notified of the mishap and Officers Walter Fitzgerald and Thomas McGrane were dispatched to the shipyard. They said a doctor had been called, but the cause of the attack was undetermined at the time.

O'Connell has been employed at the boat yard since last December.

The steel deck cargo barge on which he was working was scheduled to be launched at 3 p. m., today, but the launching was postponed until tomorrow because of the weather.

Wilson Blamed

Feinsinger, under strong fire from many members of Congress for the steel proposals, appeared before the Senate Labor Committee. He said allegations the board "exceeded its authority and ignored its own regulations" were as far from the truth as anything could be.

He was called to give his opinion on an amendment prepared by Sen. Morse (R.-Ore.) to the Taft-Hartley Act making presidential seizure of plants and facilities legal in certain cases. American industry generally, and many legislators, have condemned the President's seizure of the nation's steel industry a week ago as a "usurpation of power."

Seek Emergency Session

United Nations, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Asian-African nations pushed today for an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly in the wake of western refusal to let the Security Council take up a complaint against France's treatment of Tunisia. The council's western majority refused last night to admit for discussion the 11-nation charge that France is oppressing her North African protectorate, in which more than 100 persons have died this year in riots sparked by Nationalist demands for more self-rule.

Dodger Veep Dies

New York, April 15 (AP)—George A. Barnewall, 64, vice president, treasurer and a director of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball Club, died last night in Presbyterian Hospital. He had been ill several weeks.

Seven Governors Called by Truman On Flood Relief

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Truman today asked seven mid-western governors to meet with him at Omaha tomorrow to discuss measures for dealing with the flood emergency.

The White House announced Truman will leave Washington by plane at 7 a. m. (EST) tomorrow for a flight over the flood area. The plan is to land at the Offult Air Force Base south of Omaha sometime between 1 and 2 p. m. (EST) for the conference with the governors.

Truman invited Governors Stevenson of Illinois, Anderson of South Dakota, Brunsdale of North Dakota, Beardsley of Iowa, Peterson of Nebraska, Kohler of Wisconsin and Anderson of Minnesota to meet him there.

Also invited for the conference is James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star and chairman of the President's Missouri Basin Survey Commission.

Lt. Gen. Lewis Pick, chief of army engineers, and Raymond M. Foley, Housing and Home Finance Agency administrator, were directed to be on hand for the meeting.

Await Some Replies

The White House said Senators Hennings (D.-Mo.) and Murray (D.-Mont.) and Rep. Trimble (D.-Ark.) had accepted. Word was still awaited from the other members of the commission.

After the conference, the President plans to fly back to Washington.

At the capitol, meantime, Rep. August H. Andresen (R.-Minn.) proposed an appropriation of one billion dollars for rehabilitation of both private and public property damaged by mid-west floods.

Andresen told a reporter he would introduce legislation Monday when the House reconvenes after its Easter recess to amend the Disaster Relief Act and authorize the billion dollars for immediate use.

Should Use Money Home

"We are spending billions abroad and we should use some of that money to take care of a situation created by such a disaster as the floods in this country," he said.

The office of Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) said that the housing and home finance agency will request President Truman this afternoon to declare the Mississippi and Minnesota river watersheds in Minnesota as disaster areas.

This would permit that agency to use the President's emergency funds for aid in the area.

Grants U. S. Request For No Strike Rule

Cleveland, April 15 (AP)—Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed today granted the government's request for a nostrike injunction against three rail unions.

He observed, "the courts must not and should not be used as instruments to impel collective bargaining in good faith."

Said Judge Freed:

"This court is impelled to observe that injunction is not the solution to the dispute over wages and working conditions which has existed for a period of three years."

"That the burden of resolving the differences should be imposed on the courts is not contemplated in the law.

"The courts must not and should not be used as instruments to impel collective bargaining in good faith.

"The duty rests with the government, the railroads and the unions involved.

"It is apparent, however, that the court must in the interests of national safety, exercise its power to prevent irreparable injury."

He granted a preliminary injunction, which replaces a temporary restraining order he granted on March 11 to halt a three-day strike. The preliminary injunction will remain in effect until he conducts a hearing on a permanent injunction.

Middle Views

Scarsdale, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kas.) said last night that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has middle-of-the-road political views. The senator from Eisenhower's home state of Kansas delivered the first official presidential campaign speech in the general's behalf in New York state. Carlson is director of the National Eisenhower-for-President Headquarters. Carlson said, "We do not want to turn our backs on progress, and yet we do not want to embrace wild and socialistic schemes. That is the great middle way, which is the American way and is the Republican heritage. That is Dwight Eisenhower's approach to our problems, and he has made many clear and emphatic statements on the subject."

Honor Da Vinci

Vinci, Italy, April 15 (AP)—Heads of states and representatives of nations came to this hillside village today in tribute to a peasant woman's son who invented steam cannon, designed batwinged airplanes, and painted the faint smile on the lips of the Mona Lisa. Leonardo Da Vinci, born here 500 years ago today, took his name from the village, and gave it a half thousand years of fame. The fifth centennial of the "Man of the Renaissance" united momentarily the deeply-river east and west. Moscow's newspapers and radio hailed him as a "genius of world culture." Italy's President Luigi Einaudi and Premier Alcide de Gasperi came here with Mexico's Jaime Torres-Bodget, director general of UNESCO, and ambassadors of half a dozen countries.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 15 (AP)—Selling in rails, oils, and copper mining issues today depressed the stock market.

Pressure was light but continuous, and most of the other major sections of the market slid along down in sympathy.

A few of the railroads with heavy oil interests were among the widest losers, Northern Pacific, which has extensive holdings in the Williston Basin in Montana and North Dakota, lost between 3 and 4 points at times.

Union Pacific and Southern Pacific and such carriers as Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Railway and Santa Fe also sold off from fractions to between 1 and 3 points.

Non-ferrous metals were off fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Radio-television issues declined fractionally.

Considerable steadiness was shown in automobiles, utilities, motion pictures, and air lines.

Deal in Bolivia

La Paz, Bolivia, April 15 (AP)—Bolivia's new government promised today to forgive the enemies it beat in a bloody revolt—but briskly weeded the old regime's agents out of top government offices. The National Revolutionary Party (MNR), which won the revolt, prepared welcoming demonstrations this afternoon for its leader, Victor Paz Estenssoro returning after six years' exile in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

No More Court Pickets Allowed After July 1

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Beginning July 1, it will be illegal in New York state to picket a courthouse.

Gov. Dewey yesterday signed the Duffy bill, a measure that stemmed from Red demonstrations outside New York city's Foley Square courthouse two years ago during the marathon Communist conspiracy trial before U. S. Judge Harold Medina.

The measure makes it criminal contempt of court to do any of these things on a public street within 200 feet of a courthouse:

"Calling aloud or shouting, or holding or displaying placards or signs containing written or printed matter concerning the conduct of any trial being conducted in such courthouse or the character of the court of jury . . . or demanding any specified action or determination upon the part of such court of jury in connection with said trial."

Japanese Peace Treaty Signed by President Truman

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Truman signed the Japanese peace treaty today and the State Department announced that peace with Japan will be made effective April 28.

The department said it announced the planned effective date of the treaty—which will end World War 2 in the Pacific—"in order to permit an orderly completion of the transition of Japan from the present occupation status to that of full sovereignty."

In a White House ceremony, the President also penned his name to three related Pacific security pacts. One with Japan gives the U. S. the right to keep military forces in and around Japan.

The others are mutual defense agreements with the Philippines and with Australia and New Zealand.

Truman's signature to the ratification resolution, adopted by the Senate last month, is the next-to-last step for the United States before the peace treaty with Japan comes into full force and formally ends the state of war with the once bitter enemy.

The fina step is depositing the instrument of ratification with the State Department.

The final step is depositing the this step would be taken but officials expect it by the end of this month.

Mayor Just Talking

London, Ont., April 15 (AP)—Freedom of the city didn't mean much to orchestra leader Guy Lombardo today—he found a parking ticket on his car. "He didn't look one bit happy about it either," said hotel doorman Ted Harding, who found Lombardo standing with the ticket in his hand beside his car. "The mayor gave me the freedom of the city, but I guess I'm not in with the police," he told Harding. City Clerk R. H. Cooper said that legally the granting of the freedom of the city carried no special rights and privileges. "However, he added, "anyone receiving it would receive the utmost courtesy in London."

Building 'Safes'

Paris, April 15 (AP)—Workmen today were building a five-story strong room within the prefabricated annex of the Palais de Chaillot to hold secret documents of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). The steel and concrete "safe" will be arranged so that documents can be sent up or down within it to whatever floor requests them. NATO headquarters probably will be fully installed here by next Monday. An airlift is carrying office equipment and documents from London, NATO's home during the last year and a half.

New Remedy Reported To Stop Nosebleed

New York, April 15 (AP)—A new remedy for nosebleed was reported to the Federation of American Societies for experimental biology today.

The remedy is platelets, tiny flat discs which your bone marrow manufactures and which speed blood coagulation. Their use was described by Drs. Allen H. Minor and Lee Burnett, of Lenox Hill Hospital, New York city.

The platelets are extracted from Red Cross or other donor blood, and injected into veins. This stopped persistent nosebleeding, also bleeding from gums and reduced loss of blood during surgical operations.

Dewey Disapproves Comic Book Ban as Unconstitutional

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—For the second time in three years, Gov. Dewey has vetoed as unconstitutional a bill designed to outlaw lurid comic books and other publications featuring fictional crime, lust or bloodshed.

He disapproved yesterday the FitzPatrick Bill, which would have outlawed comic books and others that would "tend to incite" youths to commit violent, depraved or immoral acts.

"Because the statute fails to meet fundamental constitutional requirements," Dewey said, "its disapproval is necessary."

Dewey also:

1—Signed three bills designed to make it easier financially for towns to participate in the 10-year, $140,000,000 Erwin Town Road Improvement Program.

2—Approved a measure authorizing boards of education, outside of New York city, to require teachers to undergo physical and mental examinations.

4—Signed the Duffy Bill to prohibit picketing within 200 feet of a courthouse, effective July 1.

5—Vetoed a bill that would have increased from 12 to 14 the minimum age for street-sale newsboys because, he said, it precluded workmen's compensation coverage for all newsboys by making them "independent contractors."

Helps Farm Agents

6—Approved a bill to increase state aid for county farm, home bureau and 4-H Club agencies from $453,000 to $620,629 a year to provide "sorely needed" pay raises for those agents.

7—Killed a bill that would have given veterans' organizations, now exempt from land taxes, exemption from assessments for property used as a clubhouse or meeting place.

8—Disapproved a measure that would have increased from 35 to 40 feet are maximum length of locally-operated buses in all cities of the state except New York, where the longer vehicles may be used.

Dewey said the vetoed bill would not have given localities the option of banning longer buses if they were traffic hazards in a particular community.

9—Vetoed a bill that would have provided for doubling the terms of elected town officials from two to four years upon favorable action by the voters in a mandatory referendum.

The comic book bill was aimed especially at those carrying "fictional deeds of crime, bloodshed, lust or heinous acts." It was introduced by Republican Assemblyman James A. Fitz Patrick of Plattsburgh and was sponsored by the Joint Legislative Committee on Comic Books.

Dewey said the measure did not "overcome" a U. S. Supreme Court decision of March, 1948, which threw out as "too vague" a 66-year-old New York law banning the sale of publications devoted mostly to stories of bloodshed, lust or crime.

Calls Wording Vague

The governor noted that he had vetoed a similar bill in 1949, and added:

"The wording of the present bill is as vague and devoid of specificity as the previous statutory provisions. The minor changes in language do not cure basic deficiency of the earlier law."

The Legislature's joint comic book committee also sponsored another bill in the 1952 session of the Legislature that would have set up a comic book licensing and review division in the state education department. The measure died in committee.

Cold Hits Churchill

London, April 15 (AP)—Because of a cold Prime Minister Churchill couldn't go to see his horse, Non-Stop, run in a Newmarket race today. The prime minister, who is 77, spent the Easter holidays at Chartwell, his country home in Westerham, Kent. He was still there this morning.

Loses Rights Through Stormtrooper Service

New York, April 15 (AP)—Federal Court ruling that he forfeited his American citizenship by serving as a Nazi Stormtrooper means defeat for a 33-year-old man fighting for recognition as a U. S. citizen.

George Raymond Jost, '33, lost his four-year citizenship battle yesterday when Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey handed down a 14-page opinion that Jost expatriated himself by swearing "allegiance to a foreign state, to wit, Germany.

Jost has been living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Jost, at Suffern, N. Y. He was born in St. Albans, Queens.

The State Department had given him an identity certificate to permit him to come to this country from Germany to press his citizenship claim. Jost was an engineering student in Germany when the war started.

His case now will be turned over to the Immigration and Naturalization Service for deportation action.

In his opinion, Judge McGohey said Jost "voluntarily and knowingly" joined the Nazi Stormtroopers, and also a Nazi students' league, the Studentenbund, and "swore allegiance in each instance to the German state."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Harold J. Raby said Jost worked for the American Military Government after Germany's defeat and later enlisted in the U. S. Army. Raby said he was discharged when his Nazi connections were discovered.

Jost first admitted his Stormtrooper membership, Raby said, but later denied it. The prosecutor said he sought admission to this country as a returning citizen and that he instituted court action when he failed to get a passport.

Dictators Hold Parley Over Spain's Frontier

Lisbon, Portugal, April 15 (AP)—The Iberian Peninsula's two dictators conferred today just over the frontier in Spain for the first time since September, 1950.

Spain's Generalissimo Franco and Portuguese Premier Antonio De Oliveira Salazar met last night and again today at the Spanish town of Ciudad Rodrigo. They last got together at Franco's summer home in Galicia.

What they were to talk about was not announced, but likely subjects were considered to be Spain's efforts to form a Mediterranean pact with the Arab nations, her recent demands for changes in the control of Tangier, forthcoming U. S.-Spanish negotiations for the use of Spanish bases by American warships and planes and Portuguese overtures to secure membership for Spain in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Says Wingtip Tanks To Make Smooth Rides

Burbank, Calif., April 15 (AP)—A top aircraft engineer predicts that wingtip fuel tanks will appear on commercial airliners within three years. He said they'll give the planes a smoother ride and will add more range to flights.

Clarence L. Johnson, Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s chief research engineer, said tiptanks will be necessary when turbo-prop engines come into use on commercial planes. The turbo-props consume fuel as much as 34 per cent faster than conventional engines.

The 600-gallon tiptanks, standard on military ships, curb vibration and strengthen an airplane wing in flight, Johnson said, despite their loaded weight of 3,900 pounds apiece.

Nuclear Blast Due

Las Vegas, Nev., April 15 (AP)—Barring a weather change, the Atomic Energy Commission is expected to touch off the second nuclear blast in its spring series some time this morning. AEC officials indicate it will not be a major explosion. The feature blast of the series comes next week. More than 7,000 army, marine and air force men are to participate in atomic maneuvers while newsmen and Civilian Defense officials look on.

Truman Misquoted On Coastal Lands Says White House

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The White House says a caller misquoted President Truman in telling newsmen the President planned to veto a pending bill giving the states title to submerged coastal lands.

I. A. Shoot, a former Salt Lake City postmaster, told reporters on leaving the White House yesterday that Truman had informed him the measure would be rejected.

Press Secretary Joseph Short called newsmen together five hours later and told them Shoot had "misquoted the President."

The Senate and House have passed measures giving the states title to the oil-rich coastal lands but the bills are before a conference committee to reconcile differences.

Truman vetoed a similar bill in 1946 and Congress failed to override the veto. At that time, the issue was before the Supreme Court, which later held the federal government has prior rights over the land. California, Texas and Louisiana are the states primarily concerned.

Shoot has pending an application to lease lands off Long Beach, Calif. He told newsmen that Truman informed him he would direct Secretary of the Interior Chapman to grant the leases which Shoot and others have filed.

Short told reporters:

"First, the President did not tell Mr. Shoot the pending tidelands oil bill will be vetoed. That legislation has not reached the President for signature and the President reserves comment thereon at this time.

"Secondly, the President did not tell Mr. Shoot that he would order the secretary of the interior to issue federal tidelands oil leases.

"Mr. Shoot urged the President to do both these things, but received no commitments on either request."

Shoot, reported en route to Salt Lake City, was not reached for comment.

New Remedy Reported To Stop Nosebleed

New York, April 15 (AP)—A new remedy for nosebleed was reported to the Federation of American Societies for experimental biology today.

The remedy is platelets, tiny flat discs which your bone marrow manufactures and which speed blood coagulation. Their use was described by Drs. Allen H. Minor and Lee Burnett, of Lenox Hill Hospital, New York city.

The platelets are extracted from Red Cross or other donor blood, and injected into veins. This stopped persistent nosebleeding, also bleeding from gums and reduced loss of blood during surgical operations.

Dewey Disapproves Comic Book Ban as Unconstitutional

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—For the second time in three years, Gov. Dewey has vetoed as unconstitutional a bill designed to outlaw lurid comic books and other publications featuring fictional crime, lust or bloodshed.

He disapproved yesterday the FitzPatrick Bill, which would have outlawed comic books and others that would "tend to incite" youths to commit violent, depraved or immoral acts.

"Because the statute fails to meet fundamental constitutional requirements," Dewey said, "its disapproval is necessary."

Dewey also:

1—Signed three bills designed to make it easier financially for towns to participate in the 10-year, $140,000,000 Erwin Town Road Improvement Program.

2—Approved a measure authorizing boards of education, outside of New York city, to require teachers to undergo physical and mental examinations.

3—Acted favorably on a measure requiring correspondence schools to be licensed by the State Education Department.

4—Signed the Duffy Bill to prohibit picketing within 200 feet of a courthouse, effective July 1.

5—Vetoed a bill that would have increased from 12 to 14 the minimum age for street-sale newsboys because, he said, it precluded workmen's compensation coverage for all newsboys by making them "independent contractors."

Helps Farm Agents

6—Approved a bill to increase state aid for county farm, home bureau and 4-H Club agencies from $453,000 to $620,629 a year to provide "sorely needed" pay raises for those agents.

7—Killed a bill that would have given veterans' organizations, now exempt from land taxes, exemption from assessments for property used as a clubhouse or meeting place.

8—Disapproved a measure that would have increased from 35 to 40 feet are maximum length of locally-operated buses in all cities of the state except New York, where the longer vehicles may be used.

Dewey said the vetoed bill would not have given localities the option of banning longer buses if they were traffic hazards in a particular community.

9—Vetoed a bill that would have provided for doubling the terms of elected town officials from two to four years upon favorable action by the voters in a mandatory referendum.

The comic book bill was aimed especially at those carrying "fictional deeds of crime, bloodshed, lust or heinous acts." It was introduced by Republican Assemblyman James A. Fitz Patrick of Plattsburgh and was sponsored by the Joint Legislative Committee on Comic Books.

Dewey said the measure did not "overcome" a U. S. Supreme Court decision of March, 1948, which threw out as "too vague" a 66-year-old New York law banning the sale of publications devoted mostly to stories of bloodshed, lust or crime.

Calls Wording Vague

The governor noted that he had vetoed a similar bill in 1949, and added:

"The wording of the present bill is as vague and devoid of specificity as the previous statutory provisions. The minor changes in language do not cure basic deficiency of the earlier law."

The Legislature's joint comic book committee also sponsored another bill in the 1952 session of the Legislature that would have set up a comic book licensing and review division in the state education department. The measure died in committee.

Cold Hits Churchill

London, April 15 (AP)—Because of a cold Prime Minister Churchill couldn't go to see his horse, Non-Stop, run in a Newmarket race today. The prime minister, who is 77, spent the Easter holidays at Chartwell, his country home in Westerham, Kent. He was still there this morning.

Leave for Training

Taipeh, Formosa, April 15 (AP)—A group of Chinese Nationalist naval officers left today for 12 weeks advanced training on Guam as part of the U. S. military aid program for Formosa. The number was not reported.

Loses Rights Through Stormtrooper Service

New York, April 15 (AP)—Federal Court ruling that he forfeited his American citizenship by serving as a Nazi Stormtrooper means defeat for a 33-year-old man fighting for recognition as a U. S. citizen.

George Raymond Jost, '33, lost his four-year citizenship battle yesterday when Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey handed down a 14-page opinion that Jost expatriated himself by swearing "allegiance to a foreign state, to wit, Germany.

Jost has been living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Jost, at Suffern, N. Y. He was born in St. Albans, Queens.

The State Department had given him an identity certificate to permit him to come to this country from Germany to press his citizenship claim. Jost was an engineering student in Germany when the war started.

His case now will be turned over to the Immigration and Naturalization Service for deportation action.

In his opinion, Judge McGohey said Jost "voluntarily and knowingly" joined the Nazi Stormtroopers, and also a Nazi students' league, the Studentenbund, and "swore allegiance in each instance to the German state."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Harold J. Raby said Jost worked for the American Military Government after Germany's defeat and later enlisted in the U. S. Army. Raby said he was discharged when his Nazi connections were discovered.

Jost first admitted his Stormtrooper membership, Raby said, but later denied it. The prosecutor said he sought admission to this country as a returning citizen and that he instituted court action when he failed to get a passport.

Dictators Hold Parley Over Spain's Frontier

Lisbon, Portugal, April 15 (AP)—The Iberian Peninsula's two dictators conferred today just over the frontier in Spain for the first time since September, 1950.

Spain's Generalissimo Franco and Portuguese Premier Antonio De Oliveira Salazar met last night and again today at the Spanish town of Ciudad Rodrigo. They last got together at Franco's summer home in Galicia.

What they were to talk about was not announced, but likely subjects were considered to be Spain's efforts to form a Mediterranean pact with the Arab nations, her recent demands for changes in the control of Tangier, forthcoming U. S.-Spanish negotiations for the use of Spanish bases by American warships and planes and Portuguese overtures to secure membership for Spain in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Home for Aged Burns

San Francisco, April 15 (AP)—A four alarm fire swept through a wing of the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged early today, but 130 elderly women were safely evacuated. One hundred men remained in the west wing of the four story building. Fire Chief Edward P. Walsh said the 1 a. m. fire started in a first floor wash room and burned between walls into the fourth floor attic. He estimated damage at $50,000.

The average passenger car in the United States travels 9300 miles a year, the average truck nearly 11,000.

Says Wingtip Tanks To Make Smooth Rides

Burbank, Calif., April 15 (AP)—A top aircraft engineer predicts that wingtip fuel tanks will appear on commercial airliners within three years. He said they'll give the planes a smoother ride and will add more range to flights.

Clarence L. Johnson, Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s chief research engineer, said tiptanks will be necessary when turbo-prop engines come into use on commercial planes. The turbo-props consume fuel as much as 34 per cent faster than conventional engines.

The 600-gallon tiptanks, standard on military ships, curb vibration and strengthen an airplane wing in flight, Johnson said, despite their loaded weight of 3,900 pounds apiece.

Nuclear Blast Due

Las Vegas, Nev., April 15 (AP)—Barring a weather change, the Atomic Energy Commission is expected to touch off the second nuclear blast in its spring series some time this morning. AEC officials indicate it will not be a major explosion. The feature blast of the series comes next week. More than 7,000 army, marine and air force men are to participate in atomic maneuvers while newsmen and Civilian Defense officials look on.

Truman Misquoted On Coastal Lands Says White House

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The White House says a caller misquoted President Truman in telling newsmen the President planned to veto a pending bill giving the states title to submerged coastal lands.

I. A. Shoot, a former Salt Lake City postmaster, told reporters on leaving the White House yesterday that Truman had informed him the measure would be rejected.

Press Secretary Joseph Short called newsmen together five hours later and told them Shoot had "misquoted the President."

The Senate and House have passed measures giving the states title to the oil-rich coastal lands but the bills are before a conference committee to reconcile differences.

Truman vetoed a similar bill in 1946 and Congress failed to override the veto. At that time, the issue was before the Supreme Court, which later held the federal government has prior rights over the land. California, Texas and Louisiana are the states primarily concerned.

Shoot has pending an application to lease lands off Long Beach, Calif. He told newsmen that Truman informed him he would direct Secretary of the Interior Chapman to grant the leases which Shoot and others have filed.

Short told reporters:

"First, the President did not tell Mr. Shoot the pending tidelands oil bill will be vetoed. That legislation has not reached the President for signature and the President reserves comment thereon at this time.

"Secondly, the President did not tell Mr. Shoot that he would order the secretary of the interior to issue federal tidelands oil leases.

"Mr. Shoot urged the President to do both these things, but received no commitments on either request."

ADULT EDUCATION

Stories periodically appear in the newspapers about retired businessmen, grandmothers and other oldsters who have returned to school or college to resume their education. They would not appear so incongruous if there were a place for adults in the American educational system.

As they grow older, people generally come to realize that education adds definite richness to life. Their minds may not be so agile as their children's, but their judgment is sounder, their experience wider, their outlook often more tolerant, and they know how to work. Many older people wish they could resume their education. The number returning to the campus would be far greater than it is today if they had a recognized place and were not made to feel like interlopers.

The demand for adult education is growing continually as the leisure time of the working man is extended and the retirement age of 65 is adopted more generally. Interest in the Great Books reading groups, the growing number of lecture series sponsored by women's organizations, popularity of information programs on radios and television, interest in art, mounting sales of books all attest to the fact that adult America is increasingly interested in improving its mind.

Many young couples who have time to spare, as well as elders whose children have outgrown the home and people who have been forced to retire would welcome adult education programs. This is an area which might offer new sources of revenue to colleges and universities which now feel the pinch of decreased enrolments. It is a field of great possibilities.

"Large Size Week" in support of economy packages is but a few days off. We're ready to be convinced things don't have to come in small packages.

ROAD MANNERS

As daylight spills over into the evening hours and the temperatures climb toward the insufferable point, the lure of the open road will become stronger and stronger for the American motorist. As he and she take more and more to the highways, the accident rate will begin to mount. Death and destruction will take over the highways again.

The accident rate is inexcusable. It represents a terrible waste of life and property at the time when the nation should be conserving its resources. Motor vehicle accidents are almost always unnecessary. Right now they are sinful.

For some strange reason many people become monsters when they get behind the wheel of a car. Decent, respectable citizens on other occasions, they violate every law on the books once they begin to drive. Each person drives as if the law had no application to him or her. Too many drivers act as if they owned the roads. They cut into traffic, disregard stop signs, back out of driveways without looking, speed and behave as if no other motorist had any rights.

The appalling accident rate will be reduced only when drivers begin to act on the highway as they do in their business and personal associations. They need to learn consideration for each other and that a little speed is not worth the risk it entails. Finally, they need to learn that the rules of the road apply to all drivers alike. Americans are decent, kindly people. Certainly when they realize the pain and suffering inflicted by careless and discourteous driving they will try to act considerately on the road. The Golden Rule applies there, too.

Even if the family budget is slightly bent and gripes are heard here and there, things can't be too tough with nearly sixty million Americans holding down full-time jobs at the highest pay scales in history. Quite different from that painful interlude in the thirties.

WE ARE BETTER OFF

Let us hope that the Census Bureau is right. If it is, we are better off than we were in 1950. The census figures indicate that the average American family had a 1951 income of $3,300, which was $200 more than in 1950.

As prices were almost stable (so the Bureau says), that means, in its language, "a significant increase in purchasing power for the average family."

Maybe we are better off and didn't know it till the Bureau told us.

INHERENT POWERS

The American Constitution is a written document that can be bended to the times by decisions of the United States Supreme Court. These decisions vary between loose and strict interpretations, depending upon the personnel of the court.

However, when it comes to a question of "inherent powers" for the President, powers not granted to him by the Constitution but asserted by him as arising out of its preamble, the document itself loses all its force. An "inherent power" cannot be defined. It can be anything that the President himself may determine it to be. One day, because of an "inherent power," the President seizes the steel industry; the next day, he may seize your home, to quarter favorites.

The power and function of the President is clearly stated in Article II of the Constitution. In that article, not one word is said about "inherent powers." However, it is provided that "the executive power shall be vested in the President of the United States of America. . . ." The very word, executive, used here means that the President is granted" . . . the general administrative control of those executng the laws. . . ." (Myers vs. U. S.)

Certainly when the President has a law to use, he need not go far afield to seek "inherent powers." In labor relations matters, the President has the Taft-Hartley Law, which he is faithfully bound to execute. His unwillingness to use this measure because it displeases him has nothing to do with the law. Wherever a provision of a law is mandatory, it is not the function of the President to like or dislike the law; his function is to execute it. Mr. Truman thinks apparently that his private desires are public functions.

The Tenth Amendment to the Constitution kills off any idea of "inherent powers" because it specifically says:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas vs. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

"This amendment . . . disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act. . . ."

In the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corp. vs. United States), which killed the NRA, the Supreme Court held:

"The conditions to which power is addressed are always to be considered when the exercise of power is challenged. Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional powers. The Constitution established a national government with powers deemed to be adequate, as they have proved to be both in war and peace, but these powers of the national government are limited by the constitutional grants. Those who act under these grants are not at liberty to transcend the imposed limits because they believe that more or different power is necessary. Such assertions of extra-constitutional authority were anticipated and precluded by the explicit terms of the Tenth Amendment."

In a word, the President of the United States may not make his own law any more than you or I or Frank Costello can. The place to enact law is the Congress; the man to execute the law is the President. When the President acts by whim because he is in a hurry, he establishes a despotism which the Constitution seeks to avoid.

The theory of "inherent powers" is as dubious as the theory of the "divine right of kings" or the theory that Hitler possessed messianic qualities or that Stalin can make no mistakes. Any theory which is based on whim and wish is antagonistic to the American system of life, where the law should prevail.

This is not a discussion of the steel strike; it is a discussion of the incorrect and dangerous ideas associated with the President's reasons for seizing the steel industry. The basic reason is his assumption of authority on a theory of inherent powers based on the Preamble to the Constitution. It is false doctrine.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ANTABUSE AND ALCOHOLISM

One of the reasons Alcoholics Anonymous are so successful in restoring alcoholics to normal is because the alcoholic himself wants to be cured. Furthermore he has reached the point where he realizes that, despite his wish to be cured of alcoholism, he needs help aside from his own efforts. When he joins the ranks of Alcoholic Anonymous, every member of which is an alcoholic, he gets the exact help that he needs because all the members know exactly the battle he is fighting. By praying for help for one day at a time and being helped immediately if he does fall or break over, he gets his chance to correct his mistake within a short time.

I have written about antabuse a number of times and it has a splendid record of achievement, but in this treatment, as with Alcoholic Anonymous, the alcoholic must want to be cured. The very fact that he is willing to take antabuse, knowing full well the cost in suffering if he indulges in alcohol, shows that he means business. However, most physicians using the antabuse treatment with their alcoholic patients try to have these patients enter hospital so that, should a reaction take place, the patient can be properly treated.

In the Quarterly Journal Studies of Alcohol, New Haven, Drs. B. H. Gottsfeld, L. M. Lasser, E. J. Conway and N. M. Mann give a preliminary report on the treatment of alcoholism with antabuse. The report is based on experience with 42 patients. In eight of these cases, mental disturbances occurred which, however, responded promptly to withdrawal of antabuse and the use of quieting drugs. The projective "hostile" person, who feels threatened by help and who has difficulty in forming personal relationships with others, is usually not a desirable patient for treatment with antabuse. A history of mental or emotional disturbances, borderline cases of double personality, should be watched for after the patient has been discharged from hospital. In five of the eight, "indications of mounting unrest" were noted.

These research workers in studies of alcohol state that the number or percentages of cases treated successfully with antabuse is highest when antabuse treatment is employed with persons selected on the basis of their mental and emotional suitability. "Ability to respond to psychiatric treatment makes response to antabuse likely."

Improvising

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Senator Dick Russell of Georgia who has been more effective than any other southern senator in blocking the Truman civil rights program, now gives indications that he has changed his mind — at least in part.

Now that Russell is a presidential candidate, friends say that he might be willing to compromise somewhat—though he would never accept a compulsory FEPC.

Tip-off on this possibility—and it's only in the preliminary stages—came when Senator McFarland of Arizona, the conscientious Democratic leader, began sounding out minority groups about a compromise. If such a compromise can be worked out satisfactory both to Negro leaders and moderate southereners, McFarland will bring it up in the Senate—with Russell's blessing.

Steel Shavings

"Hello Boss," was the way Ben Fairless, head of the giant U. S. Steel Company, greeted Secretary of Commerce Sawyer when he walked into Sawyer's office after the government seized the steel industry. . . . Sawyer was munching a grapefruit in Detroit when a call came through from the White House telling him to stand by because the President wanted to take over steel. He flew back to Washington. . . . At a meeting of Defense Department officials, Secretary Lovett emphasized the absolute importance of keeping the steel mills running. He said a closedown would be a disaster to Korea and the defense effort. . . . Senators Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia have been pulling backstage wires to give the steel industry a price increase regardless of the effect on inflation. Robertson has had calls from the steel lobbyists. Maybank is chairman of the powerful Senate Banking and Currency Committee supposed to help hold the line against price increases. . . . Even labor has been exerting some quiet pressure to increase steel prices modestly. . . . Toughest man to move regarding prices, however, is President Truman himself—along with OPS Administrator Ellis Arnall and Stabilizer Roger Putnam.

Democrats vs. Democrats

Pennsylvania Democrats don't want to stick their necks out publicly but behind the scenes some of the top leaders are doing their best to block the confirmation of their fellow Democrat Judge Jim McGranery as attorney general.

Pittsburgh's Mayor David Lawrence, top Democratic leader of western Pennsylvania, let off a telephonic blast to Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney against McGranery. So did ex-Senator Francis Myers of eastern Pennsylvania in a call to Senate friends on the judiciary committee.

Neither one wanted to be subpoenaed and forced to take a stand publicly, though they were glad to drop a few hints about McGranery's record to the newspapers.

Interesting fact is that the once rock-ribbed Republican city of Philadelphia which hadn't had a Democratic mayor since shortly after the Civil War, last November elected one. It was the biggest clean-up of graft-ridden Philadelphia politics in years and a real triumph for clean government.

But the leaders of this new Democratic administration, Mayor Joe Clark and District Attorney Dick Dilworth, not only were not consulted by the White House regarding McGranery, but are vigorously opposed to him.

Yet McGranery is supposed to clean up the Justice Department!

Tobin's Red Face

The secretary of labor is supposed to know more about labor unions than any other man in the cabinet; which was one reason handsome Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, former governor of Massachusetts, was invited to officiate at the preview of the new film "With These Hands."

The film is the history of dynamic David Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers Union, which previously produced the Broadway musical hit "Pins and Needles." The ILGW is a rival of Jacob Potofsky's Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the latter making men's clothing and belonging to the CIO, while Dubinsky's Ladies Garment Workers make ladies' clothing and belong to the AFL.

A notable gathering of senators and congressmen, including Italian Ambassador Tarchiani, gathered in the Interior Department auditorium when Secretary of Labor Tobin rose to tell about the new ILGW film.

"This film," said the secretary of labor, "is in honor of a great union which has done so much for the working people, so much for trade unionism, so much for the American people—the Amalgamated Clothing Workers."!

Bill Green, president of the AFL, looked horrified. Ambassador Tarchiani looked uncomfortable. David Dubinsky, whose union should have been named, was about the only one who remained impassive. A murmur ran through the audience. But the secretary of labor kept blithly on.

Washington Pipeline

Boss Crump of Memphis is seriously considering ditching 85-year-old Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee for re-election. Crump thinks it would be difficult for the Democrats to win if McKellar were nominated, is trying to get McKellar to admit his health is not equal to running again . . . The House of Representatives last week unanimously voted a contempt citation against Henry Grunewald, the wire-tapper and wire-puller. In contrast, the Senate District of Columbia committee last year ducked a contempt citation. Reason: Senator McCarthy persuaded Republican members of the committee to reverse themselves and go to bat for Grunewald after he had been linked up with Senator Brewster of Maine in tapping Howard Hughes' telephone wires . . . . Last winter, after President Truman had already invited Judge Justin Miller to be attorney general, Truman told a friend: "I just feel too sorry for this guy (McGrath). I can't fire him."

Smog to Be Investigated

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — The Pasadena laboratory of the Stanford Research Institute has included Los Angeles smog in its scientific investigations. Smog, a combination of smoke and fog, consists of 50 different substances, says Dr. A. M. Zarem, of the laboratory. These substances are produced by burning 50,000 tons of fuel and rubbish and by exhaust fumes from 2 million motor vehicles. The scientist believes intensive research is necessary to determine the effect of each substance and to reduce the most irritating at their source.

Loss of 938,000 Tons of Steel in U. S. Laid to Failure to Use Taft Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Enough steel to take care of the school-building program of the nation for nine months was wasted by the dilatoriness of President Truman in failing to utilize the Taft-Hartley act to prevent a closing down of the steel mills last week.

Announcement has been made by the American Iron and Steel Institute that last week the total loss of steel due to the banking of furnaces in anticipation of the strike amounted to 826,000 tons. But to this must now be added the loss during this current week of an additional 112,000 tons in getting back to normal operations. In all a total of 938,000 tons of production will have been lost.

Just what such an amount of steel means can be better understood when it is considered that the loss represents the equivalent amount of steel needed for about 7,000,000 refrigerators or 800,000 farm tractors or 340,000 automobiles or 144,000 modern six-room houses or 26,000 railroad freight cars.

But nowadays, when steel is rationed and the auto industry gets about 20 per cent of the available steel, it means that about 90,000 fewer cars will be built. There is no way that the loss can be made up because the steel mills are supposed to operate at full capacity all the time now in order to meet the demand.

Approximately 1,000,000 tons of steel is a lot of steel. Great Britain sent Prime Minister Churchill here a few weeks ago to petition for 1,000,000 tons to help the entire British economy.

The enormity of President Truman's blunder, therefore, now can be measured in concrete terms. Mr. Truman knew that the CIO union was going to call a strike. He knew also that the steel companies weren't going to agree to the demands made upon them without some increase in price to compensate for their added costs. The President says that the CIO union had already waited 99 days for a settlement.

But the law which Congress gave the President for just such emergencies allowed eighty days during which there couldn't be a strike. It was the President's duty to conserve the steel. He told the American people in his radio address Tuesday night of last week that the reason he didn't utilize the Taft-Hartley act was that it would have cost a week's production while waiting for the five-day period for a board of inquiry to act and for a temporary injunction in the courts.

But Mr. Truman either didn't know or wasn't told that he can ask for an injunction against a threatened strike as well as an actual strike and that he had plenty of time in advance of a strike call to get a board appointed and an injunction issued before there was any closing down of furnaces.

Mr. Truman thus did cause about 938,000 tons to be lost, which cannot be recovered. He also set a bad precedent, for if in the future the government waits till there is a strike in a key industry and then resorts to seizure, there is bound to be a substantial loss of production, as happened in steel this time.

What will suffer as a consequence of the loss of nearly 1,000,000 tons of steel? What projects now will have to be curtailed?

The government agencies which ration steel have been allocating the product for essential construction only. There has been quite a controversy over the adverse effects already felt as a consequence of the severe allocations. But now the country has to tighten its belt still further in order to divide up a lesser amount of steel. This situation the President could readily have avoided.

Incidentally the carelessness of government officials in the handling of raw materials needed for the defense program is something about which the public as a rule has little knowledge. For there have been in recent months since the Korean War broke out serious strikes in other key industries such as copper. But no government agency ascertains the extent of the loss due to strikes and then makes that information public. The Administration confines itself only to information and propaganda that doesn't reflect any discredit on the way it operates. The statistics about the lost steel fortunately are available from private sources, so the country can promptly have an idea of what it means when a President plays politics and fails to use the laws Congress gave him to prevent just such occurrences.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Little is said about town criers although they made a lot of noise, and everyone tried to listen to them, today even their names are gone from memory and even from history it seems. The little book called: Sketches of Hudson a fine little historical collection written back in 1862 covers the town criers of Hudson.

The author, Stephen B. Miller, no relation to me, tells about a Jemmy Frazer, the official crier of Hudson in the olden days. It seems as Miller tells it "Jemmy loved a glass of grog, and was happier, it is said, with two than with one. Be this as it may, he was popular in the lower wards, and his office gave him influence at the polls therefore his "official" job. He was more than just a plain town crier, he was an actor and gave "from the heart." This one time, a Mr. Nixon, cashier of the Bank of Columbia in going home for the evening lost the key to the bank. It was near midnight before he missed it. Not wishing to create an alarm by a search so late at night, he concluded to say noting about it till morning.

Morning came, and still no key. As a last resort he sent for Jemmy. Nixon told Jemmy to call out about the key, in fact even offer a reward of $2 but under no circumstances to tell it was from the bank door. A little after sunrise Jemmy began his important calling. But Jemmy was so enthused that he wet his whistle just a bit too much and with the young and old who usually followed him and sometimes tormented him with remarks, his thoughts sort of became twisted as well as his tongue.

He started off with "Hear ya! Hear ya! Lost between Jamy Nixon's and 12 o'clock at night, a large key. His tormentors, knowing he was full of grog, were following him and called out, "What sort of a key, was it, hey?" And then he rolled out all the information about the key being from the bank. That's how he lost his job. But the author does not tell if the key was found. It seems according to the author of the book, some of the town crier's were humorists and worth listening to, as sometimes, they too ran low on news and had to fill in. I wonder if anyone knows anything about the town crier's of Kingston. I remember I did have some information on the old Lamp Lighters.

Some time ago Harry Rigby, Jr., gave me a wonderful little book called Ulster County Under the Dutch by Van Buren. On page 50, I ran through some of the ordinances Stuyvesant promulgated Nov., 1661 for Kingston. "No person should perform any work at his ordinary business on Sunday, whether plowing, winnowing, transporting wood, hay, straw or grain, threshing, grinding, or conveying any goods to or from The Strand, on the penalty of 1 pound Flemish ($2.40) for the first offense, double for the second, and four times double for the third. No one should give entertainment in taverns, or even sell or give away beer, wine or any strong drink on Sunday, under above fine. If any person was found drunk on Sunday, he was fined 1 pound Flemish, for the benefit of the officer, and be confined in the Watch House during the pleasure of the court."

Many older people wish they could resume their education. The number returning to the campus would be far greater than it is today if they had a recognized place and were not made to feel like interlopers.

The demand for adult education is growing continually as the leisure time of the working man is extended and the retirement age of 65 is adopted more generally. Interest in the Great Books reading groups, the growing number of lecture series sponsored by women's organizations, popularity of information programs on radios and television, interest in art, mounting sales of books all attest to the fact that adult America is increasingly interested in improving its mind.

Many young couples who have time to spare, as well as elders whose children have outgrown the home and people who have been forced to retire would welcome adult education programs. This is an area which might offer new sources of revenue to colleges and universities which now feel the pinch of decreased enrolments. It is a field of great possibilities.

ROAD MANNERS

As daylight spills over into the evening hours and the temperatures climb toward the insufferable point, the lure of the open road will become stronger and stronger for the American motorist. As he and she take more and more to the highways, the accident rate will begin to mount. Death and destruction will take over the highways again.

The accident rate is inexcusable. It represents a terrible waste of life and property at the time when the nation should be conserving its resources. Motor vehicle accidents are almost always unnecessary. Right now they are sinful.

For some strange reason many people become monsters when they get behind the wheel of a car. Decent, respectable citizens on other occasions, they violate every law on the books once they begin to drive. Each person drives as if the law had no application to him or her. Too many drivers act as if they owned the roads. They cut into traffic, disregard stop signs, back out of driveways without looking, speed and behave as if no other motorist had any rights.

The appalling accident rate will be reduced only when drivers begin to act on the highway as they do in their business and personal associations. They need to learn consideration for each other and that a little speed is not worth the risk it entails. Finally, they need to learn that the rules of the road apply to all drivers alike. Americans are decent, kindly people. Certainly when they realize the pain and suffering inflicted by careless and discourteous driving they will try to act considerately on the road. The Golden Rule applies there, too.

Even if the family budget is slightly bent and gripes are heard here and there, things can't be too tough with nearly sixty million Americans holding down full-time jobs at the highest pay scales in history. Quite different from that painful interlude in the thirties.

WE ARE BETTER OFF

Let us hope that the Census Bureau is right. If it is, we are better off than we were in 1950. The census figures indicate that the average American family had a 1951 income of $3,300, which was $200 more than in 1950.

As prices were almost stable (so the Bureau says), that means, in its language, "a significant increase in purchasing power for the average family."

Maybe we are better off and didn't know it till the Bureau told us.

INHERENT POWERS

The American Constitution is a written document that can be bended to the times by decisions of the United States Supreme Court. These decisions vary between loose and strict interpretations, depending upon the personnel of the court.

However, when it comes to a question of "inherent powers" for the President, powers not granted to him by the Constitution but asserted by him as arising out of its preamble, the document itself loses all its force. An "inherent power" cannot be defined. It can be anything that the President himself may determine it to be. One day, because of an "inherent power," the President seizes the steel industry; the next day, he may seize your home, to quarter favorites.

The power and function of the President is clearly stated in Article II of the Constitution. In that article, not one word is said about "inherent powers." However, it is provided that "the executive power shall be vested in the President of the United States of America. . . ." The very word, executive, used here means that the President is granted" . . . the general administrative control of those executng the laws. . . ." (Myers vs. U. S.)

Certainly when the President has a law to use, he need not go far afield to seek "inherent powers." In labor relations matters, the President has the Taft-Hartley Law, which he is faithfully bound to execute. His unwillingness to use this measure because it displeases him has nothing to do with the law. Wherever a provision of a law is mandatory, it is not the function of the President to like or dislike the law; his function is to execute it. Mr. Truman thinks apparently that his private desires are public functions.

The Tenth Amendment to the Constitution kills off any idea of "inherent powers" because it specifically says:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas vs. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

"This amendment . . . disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act. . . ."

In the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corp. vs. United States), which killed the NRA, the Supreme Court held:

"The conditions to which power is addressed are always to be considered when the exercise of power is challenged. Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional powers. The Constitution established a national government with powers deemed to be adequate, as they have proved to be both in war and peace, but these powers of the national government are limited by the constitutional grants. Those who act under these grants are not at liberty to transcend the imposed limits because they believe that more or different power is necessary. Such assertions of extra-constitutional authority were anticipated and precluded by the explicit terms of the Tenth Amendment."

In a word, the President of the United States may not make his own law any more than you or I or Frank Costello can. The place to enact law is the Congress; the man to execute the law is the President. When the President acts by whim because he is in a hurry, he establishes a despotism which the Constitution seeks to avoid.

The theory of "inherent powers" is as dubious as the theory of the "divine right of kings" or the theory that Hitler possessed messianic qualities or that Stalin can make no mistakes. Any theory which is based on whim and wish is antagonistic to the American system of life, where the law should prevail.

This is not a discussion of the steel strike; it is a discussion of the incorrect and dangerous ideas associated with the President's reasons for seizing the steel industry. The basic reason is his assumption of authority on a theory of inherent powers based on the Preamble to the Constitution. It is false doctrine.

That Body of Yours

ANTABUSE AND ALCOHOLISM

One of the reasons Alcoholics Anonymous are so successful in restoring alcoholics to normal is because the alcoholic himself wants to be cured. Furthermore he has reached the point where he realizes that, despite his wish to be cured of alcoholism, he needs help aside from his own efforts. When he joins the ranks of Alcoholic Anonymous, every member of which is an alcoholic, he gets the exact help that he needs because all the members know exactly the battle he is fighting. By praying for help for one day at a time and being helped immediately if he does fall or break over, he gets his chance to correct his mistake within a short time.

I have written about antabuse a number of times and it has a splendid record of achievement, but in this treatment, as with Alcoholic Anonymous, the alcoholic must want to be cured. The very fact that he is willing to take antabuse, knowing full well the cost in suffering if he indulges in alcohol, shows that he means business. However, most physicians using the antabuse treatment with their alcoholic patients try to have these patients enter hospital so that, should a reaction take place, the patient can be properly treated.

In the Quarterly Journal Studies of Alcohol, New Haven, Drs. B. H. Gottsfeld, L. M. Lasser, E. J. Conway and N. M. Mann give a preliminary report on the treatment of alcoholism with antabuse. The report is based on experience with 42 patients. In eight of these cases, mental disturbances occurred which, however, responded promptly to withdrawal of antabuse and the use of quieting drugs. The projective "hostile" person, who feels threatened by help and who has difficulty in forming personal relationships with others, is usually not a desirable patient for treatment with antabuse. A history of mental or emotional disturbances, borderline cases of double personality, should be watched for after the patient has been discharged from hospital. In five of the eight, "indications of mounting unrest" were noted.

These research workers in studies of alcohol state that the number or percentages of cases treated successfully with antabuse is highest when antabuse treatment is employed with persons selected on the basis of their mental and emotional suitability. "Ability to respond to psychiatric treatment makes response to antabuse likely."

Improvising

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Senator Dick Russell of Georgia who has been more effective than any other southern senator in blocking the Truman civil rights program, now gives indications that he has changed his mind — at least in part.

Now that Russell is a presidential candidate, friends say that he might be willing to compromise somewhat—though he would never accept a compulsory FEPC.

Tip-off on this possibility—and it's only in the preliminary stages—came when Senator McFarland of Arizona, the conscientious Democratic leader, began sounding out minority groups about a compromise. If such a compromise can be worked out satisfactory both to Negro leaders and moderate southereners, McFarland will bring it up in the Senate—with Russell's blessing.

Steel Shavings

"Hello Boss," was the way Ben Fairless, head of the giant U. S. Steel Company, greeted Secretary of Commerce Sawyer when he walked into Sawyer's office after the government seized the steel industry. . . . Sawyer was munching a grapefruit in Detroit when a call came through from the White House telling him to stand by because the President wanted to take over steel. He flew back to Washington. . . . At a meeting of Defense Department officials, Secretary Lovett emphasized the absolute importance of keeping the steel mills running. He said a closedown would be a disaster to Korea and the defense effort. . . . Senators Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia have been pulling backstage wires to give the steel industry a price increase regardless of the effect on inflation. Robertson has had calls from the steel lobbyists. Maybank is chairman of the powerful Senate Banking and Currency Committee supposed to help hold the line against price increases. . . . Even labor has been exerting some quiet pressure to increase steel prices modestly. . . . Toughest man to move regarding prices, however, is President Truman himself—along with OPS Administrator Ellis Arnall and Stabilizer Roger Putnam.

Democrats vs. Democrats

Pennsylvania Democrats don't want to stick their necks out publicly but behind the scenes some of the top leaders are doing their best to block the confirmation of their fellow Democrat Judge Jim McGranery as attorney general.

Pittsburgh's Mayor David Lawrence, top Democratic leader of western Pennsylvania, let off a telephonic blast to Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney against McGranery. So did ex-Senator Francis Myers of eastern Pennsylvania in a call to Senate friends on the judiciary committee.

Neither one wanted to be subpoenaed and forced to take a stand publicly, though they were glad to drop a few hints about McGranery's record to the newspapers.

Interesting fact is that the once rock-ribbed Republican city of Philadelphia which hadn't had a Democratic mayor since shortly after the Civil War, last November elected one. It was the biggest clean-up of graft-ridden Philadelphia politics in years and a real triumph for clean government.

But the leaders of this new Democratic administration, Mayor Joe Clark and District Attorney Dick Dilworth, not only were not consulted by the White House regarding McGranery, but are vigorously opposed to him.

Yet McGranery is supposed to clean up the Justice Department!

Tobin's Red Face

The secretary of labor is supposed to know more about labor unions than any other man in the cabinet; which was one reason handsome Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, former governor of Massachusetts, was invited to officiate at the preview of the new film "With These Hands."

The film is the history of dynamic David Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers Union, which previously produced the Broadway musical hit "Pins and Needles." The ILGW is a rival of Jacob Potofsky's Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the latter making men's clothing and belonging to the CIO, while Dubinsky's Ladies Garment Workers make ladies' clothing and belong to the AFL.

A notable gathering of senators and congressmen, including Italian Ambassador Tarchiani, gathered in the Interior Department auditorium when Secretary of Labor Tobin rose to tell about the new ILGW film.

"This film," said the secretary of labor, "is in honor of a great union which has done so much for the working people, so much for trade unionism, so much for the American people—the Amalgamated Clothing Workers."!

Bill Green, president of the AFL, looked horrified. Ambassador Tarchiani looked uncomfortable. David Dubinsky, whose union should have been named, was about the only one who remained impassive. A murmur ran through the audience. But the secretary of labor kept blithly on.

Washington Pipeline

Boss Crump of Memphis is seriously considering ditching 85-year-old Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee for re-election. Crump thinks it would be difficult for the Democrats to win if McKellar were nominated, is trying to get McKellar to admit his health is not equal to running again . . . The House of Representatives last week unanimously voted a contempt citation against Henry Grunewald, the wire-tapper and wire-puller. In contrast, the Senate District of Columbia committee last year ducked a contempt citation. Reason: Senator McCarthy persuaded Republican members of the committee to reverse themselves and go to bat for Grunewald after he had been linked up with Senator Brewster of Maine in tapping Howard Hughes' telephone wires . . . . Last winter, after President Truman had already invited Judge Justin Miller to be attorney general, Truman told a friend: "I just feel too sorry for this guy (McGrath). I can't fire him."

Loss of 938,000 Tons of Steel in U. S. Laid to Failure to Use Taft Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Enough steel to take care of the school-building program of the nation for nine months was wasted by the dilatoriness of President Truman in failing to utilize the Taft-Hartley act to prevent a closing down of the steel mills last week.

Announcement has been made by the American Iron and Steel Institute that last week the total loss of steel due to the banking of furnaces in anticipation of the strike amounted to 826,000 tons. But to this must now be added the loss during this current week of an additional 112,000 tons in getting back to normal operations. In all a total of 938,000 tons of production will have been lost.

Just what such an amount of steel means can be better understood when it is considered that the loss represents the equivalent amount of steel needed for about 7,000,000 refrigerators or 800,000 farm tractors or 340,000 automobiles or 144,000 modern six-room houses or 26,000 railroad freight cars.

But nowadays, when steel is rationed and the auto industry gets about 20 per cent of the available steel, it means that about 90,000 fewer cars will be built. There is no way that the loss can be made up because the steel mills are supposed to operate at full capacity all the time now in order to meet the demand.

Approximately 1,000,000 tons of steel is a lot of steel. Great Britain sent Prime Minister Churchill here a few weeks ago to petition for 1,000,000 tons to help the entire British economy.

The enormity of President Truman's blunder, therefore, now can be measured in concrete terms. Mr. Truman knew that the CIO union was going to call a strike. He knew also that the steel companies weren't going to agree to the demands made upon them without some increase in price to compensate for their added costs. The President says that the CIO union had already waited 99 days for a settlement.

But the law which Congress gave the President for just such emergencies allowed eighty days during which there couldn't be a strike. It was the President's duty to conserve the steel. He told the American people in his radio address Tuesday night of last week that the reason he didn't utilize the Taft-Hartley act was that it would have cost a week's production while waiting for the five-day period for a board of inquiry to act and for a temporary injunction in the courts.

But Mr. Truman either didn't know or wasn't told that he can ask for an injunction against a threatened strike as well as an actual strike and that he had plenty of time in advance of a strike call to get a board appointed and an injunction issued before there was any closing down of furnaces.

Mr. Truman thus did cause about 938,000 tons to be lost, which cannot be recovered. He also set a bad precedent, for if in the future the government waits till there is a strike in a key industry and then resorts to seizure, there is bound to be a substantial loss of production, as happened in steel this time.

What will suffer as a consequence of the loss of nearly 1,000,000 tons of steel? What projects now will have to be curtailed?

The government agencies which ration steel have been allocating the product for essential construction only. There has been quite a controversy over the adverse effects already felt as a consequence of the severe allocations. But now the country has to tighten its belt still further in order to divide up a lesser amount of steel. This situation the President could readily have avoided.

Incidentally the carelessness of government officials in the handling of raw materials needed for the defense program is something about which the public as a rule has little knowledge. For there have been in recent months since the Korean War broke out serious strikes in other key industries such as copper. But no government agency ascertains the extent of the loss due to strikes and then makes that information public. The Administration confines itself only to information and propaganda that doesn't reflect any discredit on the way it operates. The statistics about the lost steel fortunately are available from private sources, so the country can promptly have an idea of what it means when a President plays politics and fails to use the laws Congress gave him to prevent just such occurrences.

Smog to Be Investigated

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — The Pasadena laboratory of the Stanford Research Institute has included Los Angeles smog in its scientific investigations. Smog, a combination of smoke and fog, consists of 50 different substances, says Dr. A. M. Zarem, of the laboratory. These substances are produced by burning 50,000 tons of fuel and rubbish and by exhaust fumes from 2 million motor vehicles. The scientist believes intensive research is necessary to determine the effect of each substance and to reduce the most irritating at their source.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Little is said about town criers although they made a lot of noise, and everyone tried to listen to them, today even their names are gone from memory and even from history it seems. The little book called: Sketches of Hudson a fine little historical collection written back in 1862 covers the town criers of Hudson.

The author, Stephen B. Miller, no relation to me, tells about a Jemmy Frazer, the official crier of Hudson in the olden days. It seems as Miller tells it "Jemmy loved a glass of grog, and was happier, it is said, with two than with one. Be this as it may, he was popular in the lower wards, and his office gave him influence at the polls therefore his "official" job. He was more than just a plain town crier, he was an actor and gave "from the heart." This one time, a Mr. Nixon, cashier of the Bank of Columbia in going home for the evening lost the key to the bank. It was near midnight before he missed it. Not wishing to create an alarm by a search so late at night, he concluded to say noting about it till morning.

Morning came, and still no key. As a last resort he sent for Jemmy. Nixon told Jemmy to call out about the key, in fact even offer a reward of $2 but under no circumstances to tell it was from the bank door. A little after sunrise Jemmy began his important calling. But Jemmy was so enthused that he wet his whistle just a bit too much and with the young and old who usually followed him and sometimes tormented him with remarks, his thoughts sort of became twisted as well as his tongue.

He started off with "Hear ya! Hear ya! Lost between Jamy Nixon's and 12 o'clock at night, a large key. His tormentors, knowing he was full of grog, were following him and called out, "What sort of a key, was it, hey?" And then he rolled out all the information about the key being from the bank. That's how he lost his job. But the author does not tell if the key was found. It seems according to the author of the book, some of the town crier's were humorists and worth listening to, as sometimes, they too ran low on news and had to fill in. I wonder if anyone knows anything about the town crier's of Kingston. I remember I did have some information on the old Lamp Lighters.

Some time ago Harry Rigby, Jr., gave me a wonderful little book called Ulster County Under the Dutch by Van Buren. On page 50, I ran through some of the ordinances Stuyvesant promulgated Nov., 1661 for Kingston. "No person should perform any work at his ordinary business on Sunday, whether plowing, winnowing, transporting wood, hay, straw or grain, threshing, grinding, or conveying any goods to or from The Strand, on the penalty of 1 pound Flemish ($2.40) for the first offense, double for the second, and four times double for the third. No one should give entertainment in taverns, or even sell or give away beer, wine or any strong drink on Sunday, under above fine. If any person was found drunk on Sunday, he was fined 1 pound Flemish, for the benefit of the officer, and be confined in the Watch House during the pleasure of the court."

Metal Recovery Planned

London (AP)—A British company hopes to recover 100,000 tons of iron, as well as large quantities of zinc and lead, during the next 20 years from huge, unsightly dumps left by smelter works on the outskirts of Swansea, Wales. With the leveling of the mountains of slag, sites will be cleared for light and heavy industry.

Announce Retreat For Catholic Men

The annual retreat for Ulster county Catholic men will be held during the weekend of May 30-June 1 at the Jesuit Retreat House at Glenmount, Albany.

Harold O'Connor and Dr. Eugene Galvin, local promoters, said today that persons interested should contact them for further details. Free transportation will be arranged, they said, pointing out that early reservations were requested.

The Retreat House is just off route 9-W, one half mile south of the Albany city line, on Corning Hill, a ten-minute taxi ride from the Albany railroad station. The Coeymans-Ravena bus from Albany stops at Corning Hill—a short walk from the House.

The retreat offering is entirely up to the person attending. Each person will be given an envelope in which he will place his offering. The envelopes are collected by the Retreat promoter and given to the director, signed or unsigned.

It was pointed out that peace of soul, mental and physical relaxation, good companionship, ten enlightening conferences on Catholic topics—not to mention seven or eight good meals and a comfortable bed—that is part of what the "retreatant" receives.

Legislation Vetoed On Older Newsboys

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have increased from 12 to 14 the minimum age for street newsboys.

He said the measure proposed "a series of desirable changes" but precluded workmen's compensation for newsboys against injury on the job.

Dewey noted that the bill specified that a newsboy was to be an "independent contractor." He wrote in a memorandum:

"If for other reasons it is sound and desirable to impute the status of independent contractors to young newspaper carriers, certainly there should be specific provisions for workmen's compensation protection or its equivalent written into the law."

The vetoed measure would have increased the minimum age from 12 to 14 for street sale newsboys, but would have retained the 12-year minimum for the home-delivery carriers.

The measure also prescribed procedure for physical examinations and the obtaining of permits by newsboys. It was introduced by Sen. George R. Metcalf, Auburn Republican, and was sponsored by the New York State Circulation Managers Association.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

There's One Way to Play This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Any sensible reader of this column will make six spades with the hand shown today. All you can lose is one club trick.

What about the hearts? Well, anybody who has normal eyesight can see that the queen of hearts is doubleton in the East hand. My readers are in the position of kibitzers, and the first rule of the kibitzer is "Never finesse when the queen is doubleton."

When this hand was actually played, however, the declarer didn't have the advantage of seeing the cards held by the defenders. The South player happened to be Charlie Solomon, of Philadelphia, one of the country's great bridge stars.

Charlie proceeded to demonstrate that he can do as well with his eyes closed as most other players can do with their eyes wide open.

Charlie won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the ace and king of diamonds, and led the six of clubs from his hand. If west had carelessly played the nine of clubs, East would have been forced to win with the ten; and then any return from West would give declarer the slam.

West saw the trap in time, so he stepped up with the jack of clubs, winning the trick. He then exited safely by leading the deuce of hearts through dummy. Solomon won the trick with dummy's king of hearts and ruffed a club in his hand. East naturally discarded a diamond, so Charlie knew where the rest of the clubs were.

Now Charlie led the rest of his trumps out. When he led the last trump from his hand, dummy held the ace-jack of hearts and a club. West held a club and two hearts and had to discard a heart in order to keep the top club. Dummy thereupon discarded the low club.

When declarer now led a heart from his hand he knew that one of West's two cards was a club. West played his other card, the ten of hearts, and Charlie didn't even dream of taking a finesse.

He knew that West couldn't possibly have the queen of hearts, so the finesse couldn't possibly do any good. East's queen dropped of course, so Charlie made his slam.

Gets Arms From Shriners

Columbus, O., April 15 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Joann McCarty kept swinging her new artificial arms and smiling at how natural they look. Joann, adopted daughter of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Orville McCarty of Columbus, was born without arms. The ones a Shriners group gave her yesterday have hands for appearance or hooks for utility. Joann must learn to operate the hooks with her back muscles. That shouldn't be hard for a girl who learned to do most everything with her toes—even threading a needle and feeding herself. But arms are so much better.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By GRAHAM BERRY
(For Hal Boyle)

Beverly Hills, Calif., April 15 (AP)—Convinced that "if enough people knew each other, war would be impossible," Uncle Larry Perkins is conducting a campaign against what he considers the world's worst sin—loneliness.

He is attacking it where it is apt to be strongest—on the battlefield and in rooms where sick people lie.

He does it chiefly by writing letters—thousands of them—and by inducing thousands of other persons to write to each other. He has 200 "relay" agents in the United Nations armed forces to help him distribute the mail.

Uncle Larry also stages vaudeville and variety shows at veteran's hospitals. He's an ex-vaudevillain and although he's 49 and his gray fringe looks a little sorry on top, he still can dance and roller skate on his hands.

Another project is his "cookie relay." He claims he's persuaded high school domestic science classes in every state in the union to make Easter cookies and send them to the UN forces in Korea and Japan.

Letters from shut-ins and the blind are given special attention. He introduces blind persons, via letters, to blind service men at Wadsworth Veterans Hospital near here.

Perkins also entertains GIs at his modest bachelor's home; it is bulging with such items as 400 pairs of riding and cowboy boots, beautiful leather cowboy costumes which he designed himself, civilian clothes, uniforms, bobsleds, skis, mineral and stamp collections—and everywhere bundles of letters.

Uncle Larrry keeps the cowboy costumes because servicemen like to have their pictures taken in them.

His house also contains many gifts from grateful GIs, including shoulder patches, service ribbons and medals. He is especially proud of a gift from First Sgt. W. F. Webb of Princeton, West Va. It is the field coat of the late Gen. George Patton, who placed it over Webb as the latter lay wounded on a stretcher in North Africa in 1943.

The genial gent, who has difficulty finding time to make a living as a gardener, also conducts a missing persons bureau in the armed forces. His "search lists" are posted at many military camps.

His big interest, of course, is his relay mail system. He's talked dozens of coeds at the University of California at Los Angeles and young people from churches and other groups into writing letters, starting them simply, "Dear Cousin." The letters are sent to relay agents in army, navy and air force units who distribute them to men who need them.

Many newspapers send him letters they receive from lonely GIs.

Although he's a bachelor and lives alone, Uncle Larry says he has found the cure for loneliness. It's simple, he says: Just try to help other people from feeling that way.

Taft Wants Fifteen Billion Slash in Foreign Budget

Willimantic, Conn., April 15 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft says 15 billion dollars should be slashed from the administration's budget for military and foreign aid appropriations.

The Ohio senator, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination, adds that the administration is using the wrong methods to oppose Communist threats.

In his second Connecticut appearance in six weeks, Taft last night told 1,000 Republicans that the United States should maintain a powerful air force which could "strike at Russia successfully with atom bombs if necessary."

He asserted that the U. S. "cannot fight Russia on every far flung point" where it "may choose to start an aggressive war." He added:

"We cannot afford to spend ourselves into socialism, depression and stagnation."

Taft's speech was interrupted by applause at several points, especially when he touched on corruption in government or economy.

He declared there was "no hope for reform except by electing a Republican president." This is what Taft said he would do if he had the chance:

"Return integrity to government by the only possible means—the firing of the dishonest and the appointment of honest, and only honest, men to office."

He asserted that "the retirement" of President Truman would not change the issue of reform in government because "the Democratic nominee will have to defend the Truman record."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

There's One Way to Play This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Any sensible reader of this column will make six spades with the hand shown today. All you can lose is one club trick.

What about the hearts? Well, anybody who has normal eyesight can see that the queen of hearts is doubleton in the East hand. My readers are in the position of kibitzers, and the first rule of the kibitzer is "Never finesse when the queen is doubleton."

When this hand was actually played, however, the declarer didn't have the advantage of seeing the cards held by the defenders. The South player happened to be Charlie Solomon, of Philadelphia, one of the country's great bridge stars.

Charlie proceeded to demonstrate that he can do as well with his eyes closed as most other players can do with their eyes wide open.

Charlie won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the ace and king of diamonds, and led the six of clubs from his hand. If west had carelessly played the nine of clubs, East would have been forced to win with the ten; and then any return from West would give declarer the slam.

West saw the trap in time, so he stepped up with the jack of clubs, winning the trick. He then exited safely by leading the deuce of hearts through dummy. Solomon won the trick with dummy's king of hearts and ruffed a club in his hand. East naturally discarded a diamond, so Charlie knew where the rest of the clubs were.

Now Charlie led the rest of his trumps out. When he led the last trump from his hand, dummy held the ace-jack of hearts and a club. West held a club and two hearts and had to discard a heart in order to keep the top club. Dummy thereupon discarded the low club.

When declarer now led a heart from his hand he knew that one of West's two cards was a club. West played his other card, the ten of hearts, and Charlie didn't even dream of taking a finesse.

He knew that West couldn't possibly have the queen of hearts, so the finesse couldn't possibly do any good. East's queen dropped of course, so Charlie made his slam.

Gets Arms From Shriners

Columbus, O., April 15 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Joann McCarty kept swinging her new artificial arms and smiling at how natural they look. Joann, adopted daughter of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Orville McCarty of Columbus, was born without arms. The ones a Shriners group gave her yesterday have hands for appearance or hooks for utility. Joann must learn to operate the hooks with her back muscles. That shouldn't be hard for a girl who learned to do most everything with her toes—even threading a needle and feeding herself. But arms are so much better.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By GRAHAM BERRY
(For Hal Boyle)

Beverly Hills, Calif., April 15 (AP)—Convinced that "if enough people knew each other, war would be impossible," Uncle Larry Perkins is conducting a campaign against what he considers the world's worst sin—loneliness.

He is attacking it where it is apt to be strongest—on the battlefield and in rooms where sick people lie.

He does it chiefly by writing letters—thousands of them—and by inducing thousands of other persons to write to each other. He has 200 "relay" agents in the United Nations armed forces to help him distribute the mail.

Uncle Larry also stages vaudeville and variety shows at veteran's hospitals. He's an ex-vaudevillain and although he's 49 and his gray fringe looks a little sorry on top, he still can dance and roller skate on his hands.

Another project is his "cookie relay." He claims he's persuaded high school domestic science classes in every state in the union to make Easter cookies and send them to the UN forces in Korea and Japan.

Letters from shut-ins and the blind are given special attention. He introduces blind persons, via letters, to blind service men at Wadsworth Veterans Hospital near here.

Perkins also entertains GIs at his modest bachelor's home; it is bulging with such items as 400 pairs of riding and cowboy boots, beautiful leather cowboy costumes which he designed himself, civilian clothes, uniforms, bobsleds, skis, mineral and stamp collections—and everywhere bundles of letters.

His house also contains many gifts from grateful GIs, including shoulder patches, service ribbons and medals. He is especially proud of a gift from First Sgt. W. F. Webb of Princeton, West Va. It is the field coat of the late Gen. George Patton, who placed it over Webb as the latter lay wounded on a stretcher in North Africa in 1943.

The genial gent, who has difficulty finding time to make a living as a gardener, also conducts a missing persons bureau in the armed forces. His "search lists" are posted at many military camps.

His big interest, of course, is his relay mail system. He's talked dozens of coeds at the University of California at Los Angeles and young people from churches and other groups into writing letters, starting them simply, "Dear Cousin." The letters are sent to relay agents in army, navy and air force units who distribute them to men who need them.

Many newspapers send him letters they receive from lonely GIs.

Although he's a bachelor and lives alone, Uncle Larry says he has found the cure for loneliness. It's simple, he says: Just try to help other people from feeling that way.

Taft Wants Fifteen Billion Slash in Foreign Budget

Willimantic, Conn., April 15 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft says 15 billion dollars should be slashed from the administration's budget for military and foreign aid appropriations.

The Ohio senator, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination, adds that the administration is using the wrong methods to oppose Communist threats.

In his second Connecticut appearance in six weeks, Taft last night told 1,000 Republicans that the United States should maintain a powerful air force which could "strike at Russia successfully with atom bombs if necessary."

He asserted that the U. S. "cannot fight Russia on every far flung point" where it "may choose to start an aggressive war." He added:

"We cannot afford to spend ourselves into socialism, depression and stagnation."

Taft's speech was interrupted by applause at several points, especially when he touched on corruption in government or economy.

He declared there was "no hope for reform except by electing a Republican president." This is what Taft said he would do if he had the chance:

"Return integrity to government by the only possible means—the firing of the dishonest and the appointment of honest, and only honest, men to office."

He asserted that "the retirement" of President Truman would not change the issue of reform in government because "the Democratic nominee will have to defend the Truman record."

Managers Lopez, Dressen Claim Pennants as 1952 Campaign Opens

New York, April 15 (AP) — A quarter of a million fans in eight cities were expected to jam ball parks today and listen to the cry of "play ball" as the 1952 major league baseball season got underway.

Despite the loss and impending loss of such topnotch performers as Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Doerr, Gerry Coleman, Monte Irvin, Willie Mays and others, the new season gives promise of new thrills and excitement to match those of previous campaigns.

Lopez Claims Flag

The managers were optimistic, with Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians brashly predicting an American League flag. Manager Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn said his Dodgers ought to win in the National League.

The odds-makers agree with Dressen and Lopez and have installed the Indians and Dodgers as favorites. Brooklyn is an 8-5 favorite while Cleveland is quoted as 9-5 to win the pennant.

The Giants and Yankees are second choices, the former at 5-2 and the latter 2-1. Philadelphia and St. Louis are given an outside chance in the National, as are Chicago and Boston in the American.

President Truman, the nation's No. 1 fan, and only switch hurler since William Howard Taft started the presidential pitching custom in 1910, tossed out the first ball in Washington where the Senators engaged the Red Sox. A crowd of 32,000 expected to see a pitching duel between Mel Parnell (18-11), Boston's premier southpaw, and righthander Bob Porterfield (9-8) of the Nats.

Juliana at Detroit

The day's largest crowd of some 52,000, including Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, was expected to attend the Tigers-Browns opener in Detroit. The veteran Dizzy Trout (9-14) was Detroit's pitching nomination. He was opposed by Ned Garver (20-12).

The Cardinals, who inaugurated the night opener in 1950, again will raise the curtain with an after-dark affair in St. Louis before 20,000. Pittsburgh's Murry Dickson (20-16) was slated to go against Gerry Staley (19-13).

The Giants expected 35,000 for their opener with the Philadelphia Phils. Sal Maglie (23-6) was set for the defending National League champions. He was opposed by Robin Roberts (21-15).

Cold weather was expected to hold the crowd down to 10,000 at Boston where the Dodgers were guests of the Braves. The Braves will feature a rookie-infused lineup behind ace southpaw Warren Spahn (22-14). The Dodgers depended on their veteran array including lefty Preacher Roe (22-3).

Raschi for Yankees

Philadelphia expected 25,000 to watch the Athletics tangle with the world champion Yankees and try to end righthander Vic Raschi's jinx over the A's. Raschi (21-10) holds a 20-2 lifetime mark against Philadelphia. The A's nominated Alex Kellner (11-14) to do their hurling. With the exception of first baseman Joe Collins, still sidelined by a foot injury, the Yankees expected to be at full strength.

The Chicago White Sox were hopeful of exceeding their record 1926 opening day crowd of 33,000 in their encounter with the Indians. Billy Pierce (15-14) was Chicago's pitching choice to oppose Cleveland's Early Wynn (20-13).

Cincinnati envisioned a 30,000 sellout in its traditional opener against the Cubs. Herm Wehmeier (7-10) was the Reds' pitching selection. He was opposed by southpaw Paul Minner (6-17), a last-minute substitution for righthander Bob Rush.

BOWLING

Robinson's 663 Baltz's 7-10 Minor Highlights

Chris Robinson and Harold "Beans" Baltz made the news in the City Minor League last night, the former socking a 663 series, with 214-218-231, while Baltz earned an ABC shoulder patch by converting the 7-10 split.

Ed Cunningham's 582, with 235-181-167, was the best series in the Tavern Association and Joan Bruekner led the Pioneer Women with 480. Afternoon shooting in the BYA circuit featured Fritzi Davis' 460 in the Senior division and Regina Zeeh's 450 in the Junior loop.

Joan Bruekner's solos in the Pioneer Women's loop were 198-149-133. Shirley Myers hit 473; Rita Amarello 431; Nell Glennon 418; Fritzi Davis 416; C. Martini 405; A. Kirz 404 and E. Hotaling 402.

City Leaguers Meet Wednesday

Anyone interested in promotion of the league is invited to attend the session at which plans will be discussed for starting and financing the circuit.

Chicago Teams Collapse in ABC

For Men, a haberdashery outfit, started with 989 and added 1,019 for 2,008 going in. Southmoor Country Club, on the same pair of alleys, had 973 and 1,006 for 1,979. Both were in a position to hit the top.

Then the pressure started to tell. For Men faded to a miserable 863 to finish with 2,871, far down the standings. Southmoors, after a slow last game start, finished better with 925 and 2,914 for 15th place. They were high on the squad.

There was a new leader in the booster team division. Trust Securities, Northern Trust Co., Chicago, took over the top spot with 2,790.

NEW BLOOD FOR PIRATES

President Truman Makes Final Pitch; Dodgers and Indians Favored

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The 1952 major league baseball season officially opened today at exactly 2:57 p. m. (E.S.T.).

That was the scheduled time for President Truman to throw out the first ball in an American League game between the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators.

Since Truman has said he won't try for re-election, this probably will be his last appearance as a presidential pitcher.

New York, April 15 (AP)—With the start of the 1952 major league season today, Stan Musial and Ferris Fain will put last year's batting titles on the line. Musial led the National League with .355 and Fain the American League with .344.

St. Louis, April 15 (AP)—Dick Hall, a 19-year-old native of Towson, Md., will not only be seeing his first major league game tonight but playing it as well.

He will be at third base for the Pirates in the season opener against the St. Louis Cardinas.

Brooks, Cleveland Favored

National League
Brooklyn	8-5
New York	5-2
Philadelphia	5-1
St. Louis	8-1
Boston	10-1
Cincinnati	50-1
Pittsburgh	75-1
Chicago	100-1
American League
Cleveland	9-5
New York	2-1
Chicago	8-1
Boston	9-1
Detroit	10-1
St. Louis	50-1
Philadelphia	75-1
Washington	100-1

Philadelphia, April 15 (AP)—Curt Simmons, 22-year-old lefthander whose return from army duty has bolstered the Philadelphia Phillies' pennant hopes, is signed, sealed and delivered for the 1952 season.

He has said it will take several weeks of conditioning before he can take his turn on the mound.

By Man Only

Knicks Favored On Home Boards

New York, April 15 (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers will have an imposing home winning streak going for them when they tangle with the Minneapolis Lakers tomorrow night in the third game of the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

The best-of-seven series is tied at one game apiece, but the Knicks now rate a slight edge due to their impressive home floor record. The New Yorkers are unbeaten at home since Nov. 29, having won 23 straight games during that time.

Three of the remaining five games—if all three are necessary—will be played here.

New Boat for Guy

London, Ont., April 15 (AP)—Guy Lombardo said today he probably would drive "New Great Lakes," a speedboat owned by Al Fallon of Detroit, in the Gold Cup final this summer. Lombardo's own boat, Tempo VI, will compete in all eastern races. He said the Fallon craft could be expected to give at least 140 miles an hour.

Portland, Ore.—Harry (Kid) Matthews, 181½, Seattle, Wash., stopped Charley Eagle, 204, Waterbury, Conn. (5).

Yonkers Opening

Yonkers, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Yonkers Raceway, which last year broke all national records for betting at harness tracks opens its gates tonight for a 35-night spring meeting. A crowd of about 25,000 is expected to be on hand to watch the feature Inaugural Purse, which will be run in two sections. Musician is the early favorite in the first section and Prince Adios in the second.

San Francisco — Billy Graham, 149½, New York, outpointed Art Sota, 151, Oakland, Calif. (10).

Robinson 3-1 Choice Over Rocky Graziano

Chicago, April 15 (AP)—Ray Robinson's middleweight title defense against mauler Rocky Graziano tomorrow night is expected to be a savage slugfest that will fall far short of going the scheduled 15 round distance.

Most observers believe the brawl will either be stopped by the referee for a TKO or end in a 10-count knockout before the 10th round is reached.

Wagner and Adler Keglers Followed 'Slim' Okular's Track To the Glory Road While Fromer's T. Amato Had Big Sweat

"We followed 'Slim' Okular's track on alley 5 and that got us in the right groove." That was Graz Castellano's explanation for the terrific job the Met Major sharpies did on alleys 5 and 6 at the Bowlodrome. They socked the "tough pair" for 3219, a new all-time state record. With the exception of Lou Campi, who fires a looping spinner, the W-A's relied on tight-pocket hitting, riding the ball high on the headpin. Once they found the range on alley 5, they were off to the races. Castellano reeled off 15 consecutive strikes on alley 6. Remember Graz when he was the "Boy Wonder" about 15 years ago and showed here with Tillie Taylor?

Tommy Amato of Fromer Petroleum sweat through two hours of agony and the palms of his hands were as wet as if he had dunked them in a pail of water. The W-A's had the gross score in sight when the 10th frame opened but Faragalli's blow on the 4-pin hurt. Then Castellano and Campi failed to double. Localites who have been grousing about how tough 5 and 6 had their eyes opened.

Visitors during the weekend included Morris Cramer of Cohoes who opened a 40-game match for $1500 with Dick Hoover, of Akron, the 1951 All Star singles champion, last night at Cohoes. Another 10-game block is scheduled tonight on Cramer's drives, before the series shifts to Hoover's home slots in Akron. Johnny Ferraro predicts a 225 average for Cramer at Cohoes. Bert Rhea, the state committeeman from Poughkeepsie, viewed Sunday's proceedings.

Worst offenders in the matter of getting to the alleys on time are Kingston and nearby bowlers, believe it or not. Ed Beebe's Middletown team showed up two men short last night.

Johnny Schatzel proved a sensational substitute for the Duracraft squad of the Met Major. Virtually yanked out of his sleep, the railroad man who hadn't thrown a ball in league play this season, hustled over to the Bowlodrome and put on a great show. The crowd was rooting for a "300" after Johnny strung seven in a row in the middle set. How about this Charlie Williams of Middletown. He entered with a 139 average and reeled off a 139-triplicate! He wins a shoulder patch for that. Leo Pye of Lou Jarvis' Kern's Frankfurters of the Mid-City Commercial in New York cleaned up the 7-10 split in the team event.

Lou Jarvis, billed as the highest average man in the tournament, was slightly under his average with 626 on alleys 11 and 12. He lacks the class and flash of the Wagner-Adler keglers but is a steady performer around that 1-3 pocket. Mannie Colao, superintendent of the ball weighing machine, was hustled into action as a substitute for Sammy Fisher's Ellenville team. Oneonta came up with their version of "Harold Broskie." The guy's name is Leonard Epstein, who arrived seven minutes late. Teammates said he pulled the same stunt last year in St. Paul.

Castellano was a big threat for the net all-events crown with that big 726 start but he slumped at the Bowlatorium. Slim Okular got a nice start in the singles with 204-248 but slumped to 162 and 614 total. Wagner-Adler keglers described conditions at the Bowlodrome as the "finest" they had ever encountered in a state tournament. Lou Campi drew two double pinochles in a row in his singles, still had 698!

How about this for a ride in the doubles? Russell Nye of Cortland posted 611 and his partner, Roger Billings, gave him a big 418! Virtually unnoticed on the 7:45 p. m. squad Sunday was little Jerry Pisanelli of Poughkeepsie. He holds the world's ABC sanctioned record for a left-hander, a tremendous 798 rolled about a decade ago in the Bridge City. Morris Cramer's "Scratch squad" here Thursday night. All five members of the team have a scratch average of 200. Joey Schmidt and Bill Barrett are in the ensemble.

New York, April 15 (AP) — A quarter of a million fans in eight cities were expected to jam ball parks today and listen to the cry of "play ball" as the 1952 major league baseball season got underway.

Despite the loss and impending loss of such topnotch performers as Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Doerr, Gerry Coleman, Monte Irvin, Willie Mays and others, the new season gives promise of new thrills and excitement to match those of previous campaigns.

All clubs will present new faces. Such new names as Billy Reed, Ed Mathews, Toby Atwell, Dave Williams, Bob Del Greco, Dick Hall, Scooter Koshorek, Jim Fridley, Hec Rodriguez, Jim Rivera, George Schmees, Leo Thomas, Clint Courtney and Ben Taylor were expected to appear in opening day lineups.

Lopez Claims Flag

The managers were optimistic, with Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians brashly predicting an American League flag. Manager Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn said his Dodgers ought to win in the National League.

The odds-makers agree with Dressen and Lopez and have installed the Indians and Dodgers as favorites. Brooklyn is an 8-5 favorite while Cleveland is quoted as 9-5 to win the pennant.

The Giants and Yankees are second choices, the former at 5-2 and the latter 2-1. Philadelphia and St. Louis are given an outside chance in the National, as are Chicago and Boston in the American.

President Truman, the nation's No. 1 fan, and only switch hurler since William Howard Taft started the presidential pitching custom in 1910, tossed out the first ball in Washington where the Senators engaged the Red Sox. A crowd of 32,000 expected to see a pitching duel between Mel Parnell (18-11), Boston's premier southpaw, and righthander Bob Porterfield (9-8) of the Nats.

Juliana at Detroit

The day's largest crowd of some 52,000, including Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, was expected to attend the Tigers-Browns opener in Detroit. The veteran Dizzy Trout (9-14) was Detroit's pitching nomination. He was opposed by Ned Garver (20-12).

The Cardinals, who inaugurated the night opener in 1950, again will raise the curtain with an after-dark affair in St. Louis before 20,000. Pittsburgh's Murry Dickson (20-16) was slated to go against Gerry Staley (19-13).

The Giants expected 35,000 for their opener with the Philadelphia Phils. Sal Maglie (23-6) was set for the defending National League champions. He was opposed by Robin Roberts (21-15).

Cold weather was expected to hold the crowd down to 10,000 at Boston where the Dodgers were guests of the Braves. The Braves will feature a rookie-infused lineup behind ace southpaw Warren Spahn (22-14). The Dodgers depended on their veteran array including lefty Preacher Roe (22-3).

Raschi for Yankees

Philadelphia expected 25,000 to watch the Athletics tangle with the world champion Yankees and try to end righthander Vic Raschi's jinx over the A's. Raschi (21-10) holds a 20-2 lifetime mark against Philadelphia. The A's nominated Alex Kellner (11-14) to do their hurling. With the exception of first baseman Joe Collins, still sidelined by a foot injury, the Yankees expected to be at full strength.

The Chicago White Sox were hopeful of exceeding their record 1926 opening day crowd of 33,000 in their encounter with the Indians. Billy Pierce (15-14) was Chicago's pitching choice to oppose Cleveland's Early Wynn (20-13).

Cincinnati envisioned a 30,000 sellout in its traditional opener against the Cubs. Herm Wehmeier (7-10) was the Reds' pitching selection. He was opposed by southpaw Paul Minner (6-17), a last-minute substitution for righthander Bob Rush.

BOWLING

Robinson's 663 Baltz's 7-10 Minor Highlights

Chris Robinson and Harold "Beans" Baltz made the news in the City Minor League last night, the former socking a 663 series, with 214-218-231, while Baltz earned an ABC shoulder patch by converting the 7-10 split.

Baltz's conversion was the second in three days at the Bowlodrome. A New York kegler turned the trick during the state tournament play on Saturday.

Ed Cunningham's 583, with 235-181-167, was the best series in the Tavern Association and Joan Bruekner led the Pioneer Women with 480. Afternoon shooting in the BYA circuit featured Fritzi Davis' 460 in the Senior division and Regina Zeeh's 450 in the Junior loop.

Freer Raps 578

Len Freer was runnerup in the City Minor with 216-578 and Millie Berardi accounted for 202-569. Jack Tremper posted 201-566; Joe Watzka 201-204-554; Harry Secreto 547; Dom Clausi 210-546; Bill Murray 205-539; Harold Dart 212-536; and Leo Bechtold 531.

Fritzi Davis had individual totals of 129, 168, 163 in the BYA; Nellie Alverson posted 427 and Nell Glennon 402. Joe Lucas' 202-567 was second best in the Tavern Association and George Magley reeled off 215-563.

Other top Association scores included W. Harder's 215-560; Jim Noble 233-559; Bill Ball 201-201-577; Ted Wood ditto; J. J. Provenzano 205-557; W. Struble 219-553; Robert Steeger 553; P. Joan Bruekner's solos in the Pioneer Women's loop were 198-149-133. Shirley Myers hit 473; Rita Amarello 431; Nell Glennon 418; Fritzi Davis 416; C. Martini 405; A. Kirz 404 and E. Hotaling 402.

City Leaguers Meet Wednesday

A meeting of managers entering teams in this year's City Baseball League is scheduled Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the city court room at the city hall.

Anyone interested in promotion of the league is invited to attend the session at which plans will be discussed for starting and financing the circuit.

Chicago Teams Collapse in ABC

Milwaukee, April 15 (AP)—The setting was perfect yesterday for two Chicago regular teams in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

For Men, a haberdashery outfit, started with 989 and added 1,019 for 2,008 going in. Southmoor Country Club, on the same pair of alleys, had 973 and 1,006 for 1,979. Both were in a position to hit the top.

Then the pressure started to tell. For Men faded to a miserable 863 to finish with 2,871, far down the standings. Southmoors, after a slow last game start, finished better with 925 and 2,914 for 15th place. They were high on the squad.

Roy Hoegh was high man for Southmoors with 641 while Bill Kolofa had 640 for the haberdashers.

There was a new leader in the booster team division. Trust Securities, Northern Trust Co., Chicago, took over the top spot with 2,790.

There were no changes in doubles or singles.

President Truman Makes Final Pitch; Dodgers and Indians Favored

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The 1952 major league baseball season officially opened today at exactly 2:57 p. m. (E.S.T.).

That was the scheduled time for President Truman to throw out the first ball in an American League game between the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators.

Since Truman has said he won't try for re-election, this probably will be his last appearance as a presidential pitcher.

New York, April 15 (AP)—With the start of the 1952 major league season today, Stan Musial and Ferris Fain will put last year's batting titles on the line. Musial led the National League with .355 and Fain the American League with .344.

St. Louis, April 15 (AP)—Dick Hall, a 19-year-old native of Towson, Md., will not only be seeing his first major league game tonight but playing it as well.

Dick was all ready to go back to Swarthmore College this spring but the Pirates persuaded him to stay over in their rookie camp.

He will be at third base for the Pirates in the season opener against the St. Louis Cardinas.

Brooks, Cleveland Favored

National League
Brooklyn	8-5
New York	5-2
Philadelphia	5-1
St. Louis	8-1
Boston	10-1
Cincinnati	50-1
Pittsburgh	75-1
Chicago	100-1
American League
Cleveland	9-5
New York	2-1
Chicago	8-1
Boston	9-1
Detroit	10-1
St. Louis	50-1
Philadelphia	75-1
Washington	100-1

Philadelphia, April 15 (AP)—Curt Simmons, 22-year-old lefthander whose return from army duty has bolstered the Philadelphia Phillies' pennant hopes, is signed, sealed and delivered for the 1952 season.

Simmons signed his new contract after a session with owner Bob Carpenter yesterday.

He has said it will take several weeks of conditioning before he can take his turn on the mound.

By Man Only

Knicks Favored On Home Boards

New York, April 15 (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers will have an imposing home winning streak going for them when they tangle with the Minneapolis Lakers tomorrow night in the third game of the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

The best-of-seven series is tied at one game apiece, but the Knicks now rate a slight edge due to their impressive home floor record. The New Yorkers are unbeaten at home since Nov. 29, having won 23 straight games during that time.

Three of the remaining five games—if all three are necessary—will be played here.

New Boat for Guy

London, Ont., April 15 (AP)—Guy Lombardo said today he probably would drive "New Great Lakes," a speedboat owned by Al Fallon of Detroit, in the Gold Cup final this summer. Lombardo's own boat, Tempo VI, will compete in all eastern races. He said the Fallon craft could be expected to give at least 140 miles an hour.

Portland, Ore.—Harry (Kid) Matthews, 181½, Seattle, Wash., stopped Charley Eagle, 204, Waterbury, Conn. (5).

Yonkers Opening

Yonkers, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Yonkers Raceway, which last year broke all national records for betting at harness tracks opens its gates tonight for a 35-night spring meeting. A crowd of about 25,000 is expected to be on hand to watch the feature Inaugural Purse, which will be run in two sections. Musician is the early favorite in the first section and Prince Adios in the second.

San Francisco — Billy Graham, 149½, New York, outpointed Art Sota, 151, Oakland, Calif. (10).

Robinson 3-1 Choice Over Rocky Graziano

Chicago, April 15 (AP)—Ray Robinson's middleweight title defense against mauler Rocky Graziano tomorrow night is expected to be a savage slugfest that will fall far short of going the scheduled 15 round distance.

The fight will be telecast and broadcast nationally from Chicago Stadium.

Most observers believe the brawl will either be stopped by the referee for a TKO or end in a 10-count knockout before the 10th round is reached.

Wagner and Adler Keglers Followed 'Slim' Okular's Track To the Glory Road While Fromer's T. Amato Had Big Sweat

"We followed 'Slim' Okular's track on alley 5 and that got us in the right groove." That was Graz Castellano's explanation for the terrific job the Met Major sharpies did on alleys 5 and 6 at the Bowlodrome. They socked the "tough pair" for 3219, a new all-time state record. With the exception of Lou Campi, who fires a looping spinner, the W-A's relied on tight-pocket hitting, riding the ball high on the headpin. Once they found the range on alley 5, they were off to the races. Castellano reeled off 15 consecutive strikes on alley 6. Remember Graz when he was the "Boy Wonder" about 15 years ago and showed here with Tillie Taylor?

Tommy Amato of Fromer Petroleum sweat through two hours of agony and the palms of his hands were as wet as if he had dunked them in a pail of water. The W-A's had the gross score in sight when the 10th frame opened but Faragalli's blow on the 4-pin hurt. Then Castellano and Campi failed to double. Localites who have been grousing about how tough 5 and 6 had their eyes opened.

Visitors during the weekend included Morris Cramer of Cohoes who opened a 40-game match for $1500 with Dick Hoover, of Akron, the 1951 All Star singles champion, last night at Cohoes. Another 10-game block is scheduled tonight on Cramer's drives, before the series shifts to Hoover's home slots in Akron. Johnny Ferraro predicts a 225 average for Cramer at Cohoes. Bert Rhea, the state committeeman from Poughkeepsie, viewed Sunday's proceedings.

Worst offenders in the matter of getting to the alleys on time are Kingston and nearby bowlers, believe it or not. Ed Beebe's Middletown team showed up two men short last night.

Johnny Schatzel proved a sensational substitute for the Duracraft squad of the Met Major. Virtually yanked out of his sleep, the railroad man who hadn't thrown a ball in league play this season, hustled over to the Bowlodrome and put on a great show. The crowd was rooting for a "300" after Johnny strung seven in a row in the middle set. How about this Charlie Williams of Middletown. He entered with a 139 average and reeled off a 139-triplicate! He wins a shoulder patch for that. Leo Pye of Lou Jarvis' Kern's Frankfurters of the Mid-City Commercial in New York cleaned up the 7-10 split in the team event.

Lou Jarvis, billed as the highest average man in the tournament, was slightly under his average with 626 on alleys 11 and 12. He lacks the class and flash of the Wagner-Adler keglers but is a steady performer around that 1-3 pocket. Mannie Colao, superintendent of the ball weighing machine, was hustled into action as a substitute for Sammy Fisher's Ellenville team. Oneonta came up with their version of "Harold Broskie." The guy's name is Leonard Epstein, who arrived seven minutes late. Teammates said he pulled the same stunt last year in St. Paul.

Castellano was a big threat for the net all-events crown with that big 726 start but he slumped at the Bowlatorium. Slim Okular got a nice start in the singles with 204-248 but slumped to 162 and 614 total. Wagner-Adler keglers described conditions at the Bowlodrome as the "finest" they had ever encountered in a state tournament. Lou Campi drew two double pinochles in a row in his singles, still had 698!

How about this for a ride in the doubles? Russell Nye of Cortland posted 611 and his partner, Roger Billings, gave him a big 418! Virtually unnoticed on the 7:45 p. m. squad Sunday was little Jerry Pisanelli of Poughkeepsie. He holds the world's ABC sanctioned record for a left-hander, a tremendous 798 rolled about a decade ago in the Bridge City. Morris Cramer's "Scratch squad" here Thursday night. All five members of the team have a scratch average of 200. Joey Schmidt and Bill Barrett are in the ensemble.

Other big New York teams listed this weekend.

Don Evans Due Friday With Canadian Star

Faces Pierre La Salle In Mat Co-Feature

Don Evans, whose villainy in the wrestling ring knows almost no bounds, will battle Pierre La Salle, a newcomer from Montreal, in the co-featured best-of-three fall bout at municipal auditorium Friday night.

The other top bout pairs The Mighty Atlas, Chicago TV ace, with Jack Nichols, a rapidly-developing youngster from Columbus, Ohio.

Evans, known elsewhere as the Kingston Killer, used to be a nice guy in the ring. It turned out he was gentlemanly to a fault; he wound up with a broken leg for his trouble. That mishap soured him against the world in general and wrestlers in particular and ever since he has wreaked havoc throughout the mat world.

LaSalle is a lean, well muscled and well-behaved young man—to a point. But Evan's dirty work is apt to bring some countermeasures at a much earlier point than usual.

Atlas, who bills himself as the strongest man in the world, comes close to living up to that boast. A favorite pre-match trick of his is to act as anchor man in a tug-of-war; that is, let opposing tuggers wrap a rope around his neck. So far, he has withstood all tugging.

Rhubarb On Water Hole Costs Snead Seven Strokes and Greensboro Open

Greensboro, N. C., April 15 (AP)—Thin man Dave Douglas squeezed through an opening supplied by golf's rule book to turn what looked certain to be Sam Snead's fifth Greensboro Open tournament victory into a $2,000 Douglas payday

Long and lanky Dave, playing out of Newark, Del., in the last threesome, came home with a 69 for a winning seven-under-par 277 yesterday, but it was almost a half hour before it was official.

The final event of the winter tour ended on a chaotic note with Douglas finally declared the official winner and a big seven was chalked up for Snead on the par three 17th hole.

Snead, winner here four times, appeared a sure winner as he took lead through 63 holes and shook off Art Wall Jr., the 54-hole leader. The rest of the boys seemed to be playing for second place when Snead came to the short 17th two under par.

Locke Protests

Then Sammy put his tee shot in a lateral water hazard. He dropped it out, taking a stroke there, and eventually holed out in five strokes. But Bobby Locke, the South African ace, and Ed (Porky) Oliver, Lemont, Ill., who played with him, told Sam he erred in dropping the ball closer to the hole. This is a new 1952 rules change defining such a situation of which Snead apparently was unaware.

Locke insisted that PGA Tournament Supervisor Frank Caywood inspect the hole in question and when a ruling finally was made Caywood had nothing else to do but charge Snead with a two-stroke penalty for his lapse under the new rule. That gave Sam a seven and his birdie four on the last hole meant only a three-way tie for third with Oliver and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Snead left for his hotel at High Point, 16 miles away, before the final ruling. He admitted he had dropped the ball closer to the hole, but did not seem aware of the new rule change.

Locke grabbed runnerup money of $1,400 with his 70 finish for 278. Snead, Oliver and Ferrier, each received $846.66.

Dewey Signs New Boxing Control

Albany, N. Y., April 14 (AP)—Boxing boss Bob Christenberry was given iron-fisted controls over the fight game in New York today, under terms of a bill approved by Governor Dewey.

The measure gives the crusading Christenberry, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, sweeping powers to purge "the criminal scum" from boxing, to adopt and enforce new safety regulations to reduce ring fatalities and injuries, and to give boxing fans better breaks.

Dewey signed another bill increasing Christenberry's salary from $7,500 to $12,000 a year. It also raises the pay of the other two members of the commission from $25 to $50 a day for each day they attend meetings. They are Dr. Clilan Powell of New York city and Leon F. Swears of Johnstown.

The main measure, giving Christenberry and the commission broad new powers, virtually rewrites the 1920 Walker Law, which legalized boxing in New York state.

Dewey appointed Christenberry, president of New York city's Hotel Astor, as athletic commission chairman last fall, and ordered him to clean up the sport in New York state. Christenberry, a marine veteran of World War 1, vowed to drive criminals and shady characters from boxing or, he said, he would recommend that the sport be outlawed.

Turner-Gavilan Bout in Making

Philadelphia, April 15 (AP)—Gil Turner and Kid Gavilan are all but signed for a welterweight championship bout in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium this summer — unless the Philadelphian's fiasco with Chico Varona last night upsets the apple cart.

Turner, unbeaten 21-year-old Negro belter at 145½, won his 31st straight victory and 25th by kayo when Varona from Havana, Cuba, weighing 143½ refused to answer the bell for the seventh of a scheduled 10 rounder. The Cuban and his manager, Allie Zack, bitterly protested that Turner threw "17 low blows."

John (Ox) Degrosa, Pennsylvania State Athletic Commissioner, held up the Cuban's purse and set a hearing for today.

"Gavilan's managers, the International Boxing Club of New York, Philadelphia promoter Herman Taylor and the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities are in on the deal," Katz said. He said July 7th or 9th are possible dates.

Rhubarb On Water Hole Costs Snead Seven Strokes and Greensboro Open

Greensboro, N. C., April 15 (AP)—Thin man Dave Douglas squeezed through an opening supplied by golf's rule book to turn what looked certain to be Sam Snead's fifth Greensboro Open tournament victory into a $2,000 Douglas payday

The final event of the winter tour ended on a chaotic note with Douglas finally declared the official winner and a big seven was chalked up for Snead on the par three 17th hole.

Snead, winner here four times, appeared a sure winner as he took lead through 63 holes and shook off Art Wall Jr., the 54-hole leader. The rest of the boys seemed to be playing for second place when Snead came to the short 17th two under par.

Locke Protests

Then Sammy put his tee shot in a lateral water hazard. He dropped it out, taking a stroke there, and eventually holed out in five strokes. But Bobby Locke, the South African ace, and Ed (Porky) Oliver, Lemont, Ill., who played with him, told Sam he erred in dropping the ball closer to the hole. This is a new 1952 rules change defining such a situation of which Snead apparently was unaware.

Locke insisted that PGA Tournament Supervisor Frank Caywood inspect the hole in question and when a ruling finally was made Caywood had nothing else to do but charge Snead with a two-stroke penalty for his lapse under the new rule. That gave Sam a seven and his birdie four on the last hole meant only a three-way tie for third with Oliver and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Snead left for his hotel at High Point, 16 miles away, before the final ruling. He admitted he had dropped the ball closer to the hole, but did not seem aware of the new rule change.

Locke grabbed runnerup money of $1,400 with his 70 finish for 278. Snead, Oliver and Ferrier, each received $846.66.

Nursery School Has Discussion Of Father Role

Woodstock, April 14—Dr. and Mrs. Harold M. Elsbree, who have four children of their own, conducted a round-table discussion on The Child and His Father, at the regular meeting of the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School last Thursday night. Dr. Elsbree is head of the experimental elementary school at New Paltz, and holds degrees from Colgate, Cornell, and Syracuse universities.

Unexpectedly, it turned out to be really father's night, owing to the illness of Mrs. William Stifler, program chairman for the meetings, and in her absence her husband introduced the speakers and participated in the discussion. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Twine, Mr. and Mrs. James Hutchins and Jack Crawford.

Dr. and Mrs. Elsbree answered questions which had been previously submitted on cards. Among the points stressed were the importance of fathers arousing in their children an interest in their work, attempting to present it as interestingly as possible to children; and the importance of fathers arranging to spend time with their children.

Special attention was given to the problems of families where fathers, who upon returning home after long absences while serving in the armed services, must make adjustments to family life. Where a father is no longer living, it was suggested that the mother attempt to see that her children have male companionship.

In a discussion on discipline, Dr. Elysbree stated that we are "trying to encourage fathers to take their responsibility in disciplining the child."

Summing up his remarks, Dr. Elsbree observed that "children learn quicker when there is an absence of fear."

Plan Card Party

It was announced that plans are going forward for the card party which the Nursery School will hold Thursday, April 24, at the Town Hall at 8 p. m. In addition to the Norman fortress model which will be shown at the card party, the mothers of the students at the school have just completed a doll's house, which will go on display today in the window of the Woodstock Colonial Pharmacy. The house, which is a model home of 1952, complete with a television set and aerial, was designed and partially built by Mrs. Paul Perlman, painted by Mrs. Rudolf Wetterau, with upholstery curtains and bedspreads contributed by Mrs. A. A. Champanier, who also created the dolls, a complete family, mother, father, and children.

No doll's house would be truly Woodstock in character without authentic paintings on its walls, and each room of the tiny abode boasts an original, exquisite miniature, painted by Rosemarie Beck Phelps, who also aided by Mrs. Betty Crane, has made a tiny copper bowl and tray, holding fruit for the living room.

Furniture Realistic

The furniture, including a quaint cross-legged table and benches, has been made by Mrs. Perlman, who also contrived the pair of double decker beds, complete with ladder, in the yellow bedroom.

A spacious modern house, surrounded by stone terraces, the bright pansy border is the handiwork of Mrs. Wetterau, and her husband Rudolf Wetterau, has added a tiny birdhouse on which is perched a wee bird while a cat gazes out the window. Although it's a completely modern house, it is topped by a sizeable attic, cluttered with old trunks, broken furniture and an old model dress form, also the work of Wetterau.

Anyone who would like to make up a table for the card party may communicate with Mrs. Adam Moncure, Woodstock 6843.

New York—Richfield Oil Corporation of New York announced today the marketing of a gasoline specially refined for top mileage. Named Richfield 101 Gasoline because it is enriched at the refinery with over 101 different mileage hydrocarbons, the product is now available at independent retail service stations handling Richfield products from Maine through the Carolinas.

According to Richfield's president F. H. Meeder, recent surveys have indicated that motorists today are more economy minded than they have been for many years. "In view of the motorist's urgent desire to save money on car operation in these days of generally high prices," Mr. Meeder stated, "Richfield's introduction at this time of 101 Gasoline with built-in top mileage is expected to meet a basic need."

It was also disclosed today that Richfield Oil has selected newspapers as the major advertising medium to carry the news of Richfield 101 Gasoline to the motoring public.

Ben N. Pollak, Richfield's advertising and sales promotion manager, stated, "In recognition of the continuing high prestige and influence of the local newspaper in the community it serves, we are devoting the lion's share of our 1952 advertising budget, the biggest in recent Richfield history, to this form of local advertising."

'Acting' Sheriffs Make Pinch

Belle Fourche, S. D. (AP)—Two high school boys who served as "sheriffs" during American Legion Government Day got a taste of the real thing. Marvin Fenton and Dan West were given a deputy sheriff's car and a "pick-up" order for three Faith residents. The two youths made the "arrests." When they returned to the county jail with the trio, they were surprised to learn their "prisoners" were actually wanted. They were accused of failing to pay a cafe bill.

Guard Commended For Its Services On Queen's Visit

Members of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, have received high praise for their part in the reception of Queen Juliana April 5.

Col. Frank W. Harkin of Kerhonkson, commanding officers, has received letter from Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Secretary Al Kurdt of Kingston's 300th Anniversary, Inc., expressing appreciation for services rendered by the guard.

"I want to extend my gratitude and thanks for the outstanding job you performed for the city of Kingston on April 5, 1952," the mayor wrote. "I also want to thank the men of the 156th for the giving of their time and for the fine manner in which they fulfilled their duties on Queen Juliana's visit to the city of Kingston. It has been my pleasure to receive nothing but compliments on the manner in which you and the men of the 156th Field Artillery performed the duty . . ."

Kurdt thanked the battalion on behalf of the 300th Anniversary Committee, the citizens of Kingston and the surrounding area. "Without your help and cooperation, and that of your men, this reception would have been impossible."

Tank Force Kills 300 Chinese Reds

Seoul, Korea, April 15 (AP)—A powerful United Nations tank force killed or wounded 300 Chinese Reds Monday in a furious bombardment of Communist lines on the central Korean front, the U. S. Eighth Army announced.

Fifty-four allied tanks fired for an hour and 45 minutes from positions in front of U. N. lines. It was the biggest tank action in two months.

Eighth Army said the tanks, firing from no-man's-land southwest of Kumsong, destroyed or damaged 99 Red bunkers, a field gun, 16 buildings, 39 trenches and 16 gun emplacements. The Communists fought back with 300 artillery and mortar shells and machinegun fire.

As the Reds swarmed up the hill, Communist artillery opened up with a 500-shell barrage. The allied troops battled in close combat, but pulled back from the hill after midnight and called for their own artillery.

Allied guns and mortars shelled the hill and the infantry recaptured the position at 2 a. m.

Hearings Adjourned

New York, April 15 (AP)—Public Service Commission hearings on two petitions on behalf of the Yonkers Railroad Company were adjourned indefinitely yesterday Hearing Examiner Harold M. Olmsted. One petition asked authority for the Yonkers Railroad Company and the Third Avenue Transit System, now in receivership to increase fares on lines in Yonkers, and Mount Vernon and on the Broadway-Yonkers and Jerome avenue lines in New York city. The other asked permission to discontinue all operations of the Yonkers Railroad Company.

Teel Takes Over Scout Executive Reins April 21

Francis W. Teel will become field executive of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, Monday, April 21.

Teel has served as a Scout and Scouter in Dover, N. J., earning the rank of Eagle and serving as an assistant scoutmaster and Neighborhood Commissioner. During World War 2 Mr. Teel served for three years in the U. S. Navy in the Pacific area. Prior to entering the navy he attended the University of Alabama.

His first responsibilities with the Rip Van Winkle Council will be serving the institutions and communities in four of the Council's seven districts: Saugerties District (which takes in Saugerties, Quarryville, Glasco, Centerville Malden and West Camp), Northern District (which includes Catskill, Cairo, Athens, Coxsackie, Durham, Palenville and Greenville), Western District (which includes Woodstock, Samsonville, Mt. Tremper, Ashokan, Shokan, West Shokan, Phoenicia, Olive Bridge, Allaben and Pine Hill), and the Mountain District (which includes Tannersville, Hunter, Maplecrest, East Jewett, Hensonville, Prattsville, Lexington, Windham and West Kill). The other three districts of the council (Kingston, Southern and Rondout Valley) wil continue to receive service from Scout Executive George V. Dennis.

Teel will direct the council camp at East Jewett this summer and in preparation will attend the National Camping School in June at the National Training Center, Mendham, N. J., where he has just completed the National Training School for Scout Executives. He is married and has two children, a boy, three months old, and a girl, four years old.

Truman Says Hope For Peace Lies in UN

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Truman believes the United Nations holds the hope for world peace. He has called on America's women to support its "untiring effort" toward that goal.

"That is why," he wrote in a letter read at the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Continental Congress last night, "the United States has endorsed wholeheartedly the untiring efforts of the United Nations to secure world peace. It is why your sons and husbands are stopping Communist aggression in Korea — and why the United States is assisting other nations threatened by communism to strengthen their military and economic positions."

Truman's letter, dated March 15, said the price to preserve freedom is high, but "we feel the rewards are far more valuable."

Stage Runs Wild

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 15 (AP)—The mechanism of a modern revolving stage at Odense went crazy last night and sent sets for "Die Fledermaus" spinning before a startled audience. Scenes ranging from a ballroom to a prison spun dizzily until an operator got the contraption stopped. The show went on eventually, but the stage was turned slowly by hand.

Peace Talk Today Lasts 25 Seconds

Munsan, April 15 (AP)—Korean truce supervision negotiators met for 25 seconds today—just long enough to run through their pat routine of the past week—no business.

Meanwhile, the time for resuming crucial talks on prisoner exchange still was up in the air. Peiping radio said last night the UN command had advised the Reds it was not ready to take up again the conferences on how to exchange prisoners of war.

The Reds proposed Sunday that the talks be resumed. These were recessed April 4 to permit both sides to work separately on possible solutions.

The Reds had insisted on forced repatriation of prisoners. The allies demanded the right of choice for each prisoner.

There has been some indication the two parties in off-the-record meetings prior to April 4 worked out a secret formula for exchanging prisoners and that the allies are reworking their list of prisoners to bring it in line with the formula.

The two truce supervision issues—Russia's role in post-armistice Korea and the question of rebuilding North Korean military airfields—are considered open to solution once agreement is reached on the critical prisoner exchange problem.

The last five meetings on truce supervision have taken up four minutes in all. Tuesday's dialogue went like this:

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang: "Has your side anything to say?"

U. S. Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison: "No."

Fang: "Since your side has nothing new to say we suggest that we recess."

Blamed for Swindle

New York, April 15 (AP)—Two men were under arrest today on charges that they swindled a Japanese import and export firm of $780,000 deposited in this country for the purchase of newsprint paper. District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's office said that dealings with other firms may bring the amount involved in the alleged swindle to between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000. The men were Salvatore Cafiero, 41, of Arlington, N. J., and Maxwell Meyers, 42, of the Bronx. They were charged specifically with grand larceny of $21,304.34 from Toho Bussan Kaifha, Ltd. Both said they were innocent of any wrongdoing. They were accused of accepting a $780,000 deposit on their promise to supply newsprint to the Japanese firm, and of shipping the firm a small amount of inferior and odd-sized newsprint. Also they were charged with failing to fill the rest of the commitment. The district attorney's office charged that the two men continued to draw against the deposit until it was exhausted.

Clear General Homma

Tokyo, April 15 (AP)—The Japanese government today cleared the name of Lt. Gen. Masakaru Homma, who was hanged by the allies for atrocities in the Philippines. Homma, wartime Japanese commander-in-chief of Manila, was included in the latest list of 374 former militarists and war criminals restored to full civil status by the government. Had he lived, Homma would now be eligible for public office. The action by independence-conscious Japan does not necessarily mean a challenge of the allied court that condemned Homma. The government said it considers Homma innocent of crimes against the Filipino people because he "took orders from above as a serviceman."

Four Air Force Officers Slated For Courts Martial

Scott Air Force Base, Ill., April 15 (AP)—At least four—and possibly more—of the officers who have defied air force authorities by refusing to fly are scheduled to be tried by courts-martial.

Formal charges of wilful disobedience of a lawful order have been filed against four of the six reserve officers engaged in a "sit down strike" at Randolph Air Force Base, Tex.

A decision of whether charges will be filed against six other officers involved in a similar case at Mather AFB, Calif., awaits completion of an investigation.

Capt. Jerome Schechter of Springfield, N. J., one of the six at Mather AFB, said he'd rather go to prison than to fly.

In an interview yesterday in California, the 35-year-old Schechter said "this fear of flying is something that I've felt for a long time and has culminated since I came to Mather."

The Air Training Command, which has headquarters here, has disclosed that some 225 officers have asked to be suspended from flight duty because of an alleged fear of flying.

Besides Schechter, a veteran of 35 combat missions in the Pacific as a navigator, the other Mather officers who have refused to fly are:

First Lts. Ralph C. Engel, Cleveland Heights, O.; John M. Hock, Chambersburg, Pa.; James D. Snoddy, Wellford, S. C.; Stanley Rosenthal, Philadelphia; and 2nd Lt. Joseph M. Buscaglia, Chicago.

Truck Fails to Stop After Striking Car

Gypsies in Saugerties

A band of gypsies, said to be the first in the area in many years, has set up camp on the grounds of Barclay Manor, Route 9W, Saugerties. The encampment consists of 40 men, women and children, seven trailers and 11 automobiles. State police said they are headed by King Zeke Costa, one of four brothers in the group.

Held Incommunicado

Frankfurt, Germany, April 15 (AP)—U. S. Cpl. Alexander S. Czarnecki, who spent the last 16 months behind the Iron Curtain, today was held incommunicado by the army for a military intelligence investigation. The Polish-born GI went AWOL (absent without leave) from his outfit, the Sixth Armored Cavalry Regiment, at Lendshut, Bavaria, Dec. 15, 1950. He "turned himself in" last Thursday at the American embassy in Warsaw. The army said he spent 12 of the 16 months in a Czech jail before Czech authorities handed him over to Polish custody. The army hasn't announced whether he went east voluntarily or involuntarily. Czarnecki was flown to Frankfurt last night from Berlin, but the army refused to reveal where he was taken for questioning.

Tank Force Kills 300 Chinese Reds

Seoul, Korea, April 15 (AP)—A powerful United Nations tank force killed or wounded 300 Chinese Reds Monday in a furious bombardment of Communist lines on the central Korean front, the U. S. Eighth Army announced.

Fifty-four allied tanks fired for an hour and 45 minutes from positions in front of U. N. lines. It was the biggest tank action in two months.

Eighth Army said the tanks, firing from no-man's-land southwest of Kumsong, destroyed or damaged 99 Red bunkers, a field gun, 16 buildings, 39 trenches and 16 gun emplacements. The Communists fought back with 300 artillery and mortar shells and machinegun fire.

Allied infantrymen early Tuesday retook a hill east of the Pukhan river on the central front two hours after they were pushed off by 400 Chinese Reds.

As the Reds swarmed up the hill, Communist artillery opened up with a 500-shell barrage. The allied troops battled in close combat, but pulled back from the hill after midnight and called for their own artillery.

Allied guns and mortars shelled the hill and the infantry recaptured the position at 2 a. m.

Hearings Adjourned

New York, April 15 (AP)—Public Service Commission hearings on two petitions on behalf of the Yonkers Railroad Company were adjourned indefinitely yesterday Hearing Examiner Harold M. Olmsted. One petition asked authority for the Yonkers Railroad Company and the Third Avenue Transit System, now in receivership to increase fares on lines in Yonkers, and Mount Vernon and on the Broadway-Yonkers and Jerome avenue lines in New York city. The other asked permission to discontinue all operations of the Yonkers Railroad Company.

Teel Takes Over Scout Executive Reins April 21

Francis W. Teel will become field executive of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, Monday, April 21.

Teel has served as a Scout and Scouter in Dover, N. J., earning the rank of Eagle and serving as an assistant scoutmaster and Neighborhood Commissioner. During World War 2 Mr. Teel served for three years in the U. S. Navy in the Pacific area. Prior to entering the navy he attended the University of Alabama.

His first responsibilities with the Rip Van Winkle Council will be serving the institutions and communities in four of the Council's seven districts: Saugerties District (which takes in Saugerties, Quarryville, Glasco, Centerville Malden and West Camp), Northern District (which includes Catskill, Cairo, Athens, Coxsackie, Durham, Palenville and Greenville), Western District (which includes Woodstock, Samsonville, Mt. Tremper, Ashokan, Shokan, West Shokan, Phoenicia, Olive Bridge, Allaben and Pine Hill), and the Mountain District (which includes Tannersville, Hunter, Maplecrest, East Jewett, Hensonville, Prattsville, Lexington, Windham and West Kill). The other three districts of the council (Kingston, Southern and Rondout Valley) wil continue to receive service from Scout Executive George V. Dennis.

Teel will direct the council camp at East Jewett this summer and in preparation will attend the National Camping School in June at the National Training Center, Mendham, N. J., where he has just completed the National Training School for Scout Executives. He is married and has two children, a boy, three months old, and a girl, four years old.

Truman Says Hope For Peace Lies in UN

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Truman believes the United Nations holds the hope for world peace. He has called on America's women to support its "untiring effort" toward that goal.

"That is why," he wrote in a letter read at the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Continental Congress last night, "the United States has endorsed wholeheartedly the untiring efforts of the United Nations to secure world peace. It is why your sons and husbands are stopping Communist aggression in Korea — and why the United States is assisting other nations threatened by communism to strengthen their military and economic positions."

Truman's letter, dated March 15, said the price to preserve freedom is high, but "we feel the rewards are far more valuable."

Stage Runs Wild

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 15 (AP)—The mechanism of a modern revolving stage at Odense went crazy last night and sent sets for "Die Fledermaus" spinning before a startled audience. Scenes ranging from a ballroom to a prison spun dizzily until an operator got the contraption stopped. The show went on eventually, but the stage was turned slowly by hand.

Peace Talk Today Lasts 25 Seconds

Munsan, April 15 (AP)—Korean truce supervision negotiators met for 25 seconds today—just long enough to run through their pat routine of the past week—no business.

Meanwhile, the time for resuming crucial talks on prisoner exchange still was up in the air. Peiping radio said last night the UN command had advised the Reds it was not ready to take up again the conferences on how to exchange prisoners of war.

The Reds proposed Sunday that the talks be resumed. These were recessed April 4 to permit both sides to work separately on possible solutions.

There has been some indication the two parties in off-the-record meetings prior to April 4 worked out a secret formula for exchanging prisoners and that the allies are reworking their list of prisoners to bring it in line with the formula.

The two truce supervision issues—Russia's role in post-armistice Korea and the question of rebuilding North Korean military airfields—are considered open to solution once agreement is reached on the critical prisoner exchange problem.

The allies want a ban on military airfield reconstruction and oppose Red nomination of Russia as a neutral truce observer.

The last five meetings on truce supervision have taken up four minutes in all. Tuesday's dialogue went like this:

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang: "Has your side anything to say?"

U. S. Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison: "No."

Fang: "Since your side has nothing new to say we suggest that we recess."

Blamed for Swindle

New York, April 15 (AP)—Two men were under arrest today on charges that they swindled a Japanese import and export firm of $780,000 deposited in this country for the purchase of newsprint paper. District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's office said that dealings with other firms may bring the amount involved in the alleged swindle to between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000. The men were Salvatore Cafiero, 41, of Arlington, N. J., and Maxwell Meyers, 42, of the Bronx. They were charged specifically with grand larceny of $21,304.34 from Toho Bussan Kaifha, Ltd. Both said they were innocent of any wrongdoing. They were accused of accepting a $780,000 deposit on their promise to supply newsprint to the Japanese firm, and of shipping the firm a small amount of inferior and odd-sized newsprint. Also they were charged with failing to fill the rest of the commitment. The district attorney's office charged that the two men continued to draw against the deposit until it was exhausted.

Clear General Homma

Tokyo, April 15 (AP)—The Japanese government today cleared the name of Lt. Gen. Masakaru Homma, who was hanged by the allies for atrocities in the Philippines. Homma, wartime Japanese commander-in-chief of Manila, was included in the latest list of 374 former militarists and war criminals restored to full civil status by the government. Had he lived, Homma would now be eligible for public office. The action by independence-conscious Japan does not necessarily mean a challenge of the allied court that condemned Homma. The government said it considers Homma innocent of crimes against the Filipino people because he "took orders from above as a serviceman."

Four Air Force Officers Slated For Courts Martial

Scott Air Force Base, Ill., April 15 (AP)—At least four—and possibly more—of the officers who have defied air force authorities by refusing to fly are scheduled to be tried by courts-martial.

Formal charges of wilful disobedience of a lawful order have been filed against four of the six reserve officers engaged in a "sit down strike" at Randolph Air Force Base, Tex.

A decision of whether charges will be filed against six other officers involved in a similar case at Mather AFB, Calif., awaits completion of an investigation.

Capt. Jerome Schechter of Springfield, N. J., one of the six at Mather AFB, said he'd rather go to prison than to fly.

In an interview yesterday in California, the 35-year-old Schechter said "this fear of flying is something that I've felt for a long time and has culminated since I came to Mather."

The Air Training Command, which has headquarters here, has disclosed that some 225 officers have asked to be suspended from flight duty because of an alleged fear of flying.

Besides Schechter, a veteran of 35 combat missions in the Pacific as a navigator, the other Mather officers who have refused to fly are:

First Lts. Ralph C. Engel, Cleveland Heights, O.; John M. Hock, Chambersburg, Pa.; James D. Snoddy, Wellford, S. C.; Stanley Rosenthal, Philadelphia; and 2nd Lt. Joseph M. Buscaglia, Chicago.

Truck Fails to Stop After Striking Car

The sheriff's office is attempting to locate a truck that reportedly continued without stopping after sideswiping an automobile on Route 9W at Ulster Park Sunday at 9:15 p. m.

Gypsies in Saugerties

A band of gypsies, said to be the first in the area in many years, has set up camp on the grounds of Barclay Manor, Route 9W, Saugerties. The encampment consists of 40 men, women and children, seven trailers and 11 automobiles. State police said they are headed by King Zeke Costa, one of four brothers in the group.

Held Incommunicado

Frankfurt, Germany, April 15 (AP)—U. S. Cpl. Alexander S. Czarnecki, who spent the last 16 months behind the Iron Curtain, today was held incommunicado by the army for a military intelligence investigation. The Polish-born GI went AWOL (absent without leave) from his outfit, the Sixth Armored Cavalry Regiment, at Lendshut, Bavaria, Dec. 15, 1950. He "turned himself in" last Thursday at the American embassy in Warsaw. The army said he spent 12 of the 16 months in a Czech jail before Czech authorities handed him over to Polish custody. The army hasn't announced whether he went east voluntarily or involuntarily. Czarnecki was flown to Frankfurt last night from Berlin, but the army refused to reveal where he was taken for questioning.

Hospitals Fifth Largest Business In United States

One out of every 10 persons will be a patient in a hospital during the ensuing year, it was pointed out today by W. B. Sheldon, administrator of Kingston Hospital.

Pointing out that the hospital business was the fifth largest in America, Sheldon called attention to National Hospital Day May 12 and the tremendous progress of hospitals since the day of the "houses of pity"—the unsanitary, cruel and heart-rending hospitals of only a few decades ago.

In order to point up the advancement of medicine Sheldon called attention to excerpts from an article by Don Dunham, medical editor of the Cleveland Press:

"As fast as American industry has moved forward, it probably has been outspeeded by the miracles of medicine. Striding forward in seven league boots, medicine, centered in hospitals and research laboratories, has pushed back the march of the Men of Death.

"The accomplishments in the field of health in America in the last 25 years are stupendous and enthralling.

"They have given to each of us the expectancy of longer, healthier and more comfortable life. Indeed, each baby born this year can look forward to living about 20 years longer than could babies born in 1900.

"Many of man's worst diseases have been vanquished. Advances have been made against many more. Medical research today is centering its weapons against our No. 1 killer, disease of the heart, arteries and blood system, and the No. 2 enemy, cancer. Great progress is in sight."

Fish Charges False Rumors by Opposition

Middletown, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Former Congressman Hamilton Fish said today that "false rumors" are being circulated that he intends to try to regain his seat in the House of Representatives.

Fish said in a statement that the "rumors" are "being circulated by the opposition."

He identified the opposition as two men opposing his bid to be elected in the April 22 primary as a delegate to the Republican national convention. The two are Charles E. Dusenberry, of Orange county, and Dr. E. Ogden Bush, of Delaware county.

Two delegates are to be selected from this district. Fish supports Sen. Robert Taft, of Ohio. Dusenberry and Bush are unpledged.

"I have no desire or inclination after 24 years of service to return to the House of Representatives," Fish said. "I have never even considered being a candidate. * * *. Anyone who makes such a statement is deliberately lying."

Fish said he would have liked to have run against Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (N.Y.-D., Liberal) in 1950 and added that he believed he could have defeated Lehman for the Senate seat.

Rhoads to Speak At Annual Cancer Society Meeting

Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads, director of the Memorial Center, New York, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Ulster county branch, American Cancer Society, at 6:30 p. m., Monday, April 21, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Dr. Rhoads, a graduate of the Harvard Medical School, is a member of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists of the American Society for Experimental Pathology. He also belongs to the American College of Physicians, the Association of American Physicians, the Society for Clinical Investigation, the American Radium Society, the Committee on Growth of the National Research Council and a Fellow of the American Medical Association.

Those wishing to attend the meeting should make reservations with Mrs. Robert R. Rodie, 83 Albany avenue, by Thursday, April 17. The public is invited. A charge of $3 will be made for the dinner.

Picket University

New York, April 15 (AP)—The CIO Transport Workers Union threw picket lines around a two-block area of the Columbia University campus today in its campaign to unionize the school's cafeteria workers. Goal of the union is to force Columbia to recognize it as bargaining agent for kitchen and dining room workers. Besides 85 regular cafeteria workers, the union also seeks to represent more than 200 students employed in the dining room. Immediate results of the picketing were not announced.

Fish Charges False Rumors by Opposition

Middletown, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Former Congressman Hamilton Fish said today that "false rumors" are being circulated that he intends to try to regain his seat in the House of Representatives.

Fish said in a statement that the "rumors" are "being circulated by the opposition."

He identified the opposition as two men opposing his bid to be elected in the April 22 primary as a delegate to the Republican national convention. The two are Charles E. Dusenberry, of Orange county, and Dr. E. Ogden Bush, of Delaware county.

Two delegates are to be selected from this district. Fish supports Sen. Robert Taft, of Ohio. Dusenberry and Bush are unpledged.

"I have no desire or inclination after 24 years of service to return to the House of Representatives," Fish said. "I have never even considered being a candidate. * * *. Anyone who makes such a statement is deliberately lying."

Fish said he would have liked to have run against Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (N.Y.-D., Liberal) in 1950 and added that he believed he could have defeated Lehman for the Senate seat.
